CONGRESS AND PRESIDENT IN REAL BATTLE

If Hoover Yields Flood of Relief Measures Will Be Up for Vote

NEW LOANS IN QUESTION

Congress Members Feel Popular Opinion Justifies Borrowing

Washington — (CPA) — President Hoover is in the middle of a real row with congress and relief legislation and it will not end until the president either threatens a veto or exercises his veto power.

Pressed on all sides to enact measures to relieve unemployment congress has undertaken to raise the figures given by the president and if the White House shows any signs of capitulating the legislative branch of the government will meet measures right and left forcing either a large bond issue or a general increase in taxes.

The action by the senate in approving without roll call an increase from forty million to sixty million dollars the provision for a drought loan is significant of the mood of congress at present. Sensitive to current opinion, popular opinion the members at present feel that government can afford the extra sums involved in this particular measure but it is apparent that the president is much more interested in the principle of the thing than the relatively small increase in the appropriation. What the president wants to prevent is an indiscriminate appropriation policy which will increase the government deficit and force the treasury to borrow.

OPPOSITE VIEWPOINTS
There are, of course, in congress who feel that a billion-dollar ought to be spent in relief work and that the president should have adopted the leadership on this point. Mr. Hoover on the other hand has felt that increases in taxes or the additional interest on a large loan would weaken the government's position and would only be a temporary aid.

From a political standpoint members of congress who want to appropriate money for unemployment relief know they are on solid ground. Mr. Hoover accuses some members of congress of "playing politics with human misery," his idea being that they know that certain measures cannot be passed but they are ob-

The indictment was the seventh returned by the jury since its investigations of Detroit crime started.

Bommarito's indictment followed his appearance in the police show up Monday and his subsequent identification as one of the gunmen who entered the LaSalle hotel and killed the radio announcer.

Paris — (CP) — President Doumergue today asked Theodore Steeg, Radical Socialist senator and former resident general of French Morocco, to form a government to replace that of Andre Tardieu, which resigned a week ago after an adverse vote in the senate.

M. Steeg said that he would give the president his reply this afternoon. He is the fourth man to be asked to solve the present ministerial crisis. M. Poincare refused because of ill health and Mm. Barthou and Pierre Laval failed and had to return their mandates.

PROPOSE SYSTEM TO REPLACE DRY LAW

Group Maps Plans for Government Controlled Dispensaries of Liquor

Washington — (CP) — Resolutions proposing a system of government controlled dispensaries to handle liquor were adopted today by "the national constitutional convention for the solution of the prohibition question."

Dr. F. W. Buck, executive secretary of the Federal Dispensary Tax Reduction League, said the resolution was an answer to the demand by prohibitionists that some solution of the liquor problem be offered before the opponents continued their campaign against the Volstead act.

The resolution said that the liquor laws should be immediately amended "to permit the manufacture, transportation and sale of wines and beers of an alcoholic content not intoxicating in fact." Dispensaries would not be established in states where laws against the sale of liquor remain in force and not more than one would be placed in towns less than 50,000.

The convention adjourned today.

The following organizations were represented:

The Federal Dispensary Tax Reduction League, Inc.; the Congressional Districts Modification League; the National Constitutional Liberty League; the League for Concurrent Prohibition; the Women's Moderation Union; the Michigan Modification League; the Associated Organizations, Inc., and the League for Prohibition Reform.

CHANNEL COAST AGAIN GRIPPED BY HEAVY FOG

London — (CP) — The channel coast was enshrouded again today in a heavy fog which disrupted transportation by water as well as by land and air.

Navigation in the channel was almost impossible. The Belgian channel steamer, Prince Leopold, was damaged in a collision with a breakwater as it entered Dover harbor. The Aquitania was five hours late entering Southampton. The Port of Hull was fog-taken and a fleet of trawlers lay outside not daring to enter.

Trains in eastern England panted into stations hours overdue. Air services stopped and highway traffic became very dangerous, partly because of the fog and partly because of the frozen roads. A motor-bus collided with a lorry near Leicester and passengers were hurled through the windows.

Wagner Presents Own Plan To Prevent Unemployment

Washington — (CP) — Legislation to prevent future unemployment was demanded today by Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York.

Addressing the senate, he criticized President Hoover for not presenting a permanent program for controlling the effects of slack business.

"One of the most clearly legible expressions to be found in the election returns," he said, "is widespread public disapproval of the administration's method or rather lack of method of dealing with unemployment."

The New York senator quoted the president as saying in his annual message "it is yet too soon to constructively formulate" permanent legislation and said "this plea for delay is but an apology for previous inaction."

"We opened this session under the happy auspices of promises cooperation between the two sides of the chamber and between the legislature and the executive," he continued.

"To me that meant joint effort in making a lasting contribution to the overshadowing problem of our generation. It did not occur to me that it might mean acquiescence in a policy of further delay and inaction."

Wagner said he was not opposed to the relief measures now pending. "But I plead for a better way in the future," he said. "A place on the broad line, is, after all, an unkind and ungenerous reward to the workmen who have made our country."

He urged the enactment of his bills to prevent unemployment, which passed the senate last session.

GIRL ON STAND IN SHEPARD'S MURDER TRIAL

Stenographer Tells About Love Affair With Accused Army Doctor

Kansas City, Kas. — (CP) — Miss Grace Brandon, blonde stenographer over whom the government charges Major Charles A. Shepard fatally poisoned his wife, testified in the army medical officer's murder trial today that Shepard's plans for a divorce were balked shortly before Mrs. Shepard was stricken.

A few weeks before Mrs. Shepard became ill at Fort Riley, Kas., in June, 1929, Miss Brandon testified Shepard wrote her he was "so depressed and broken-hearted over the failure of his wife to divorce him that life was not worth while."

The San Antonio girl, appearing as a government witness, said that ten days before Mrs. Shepard's death Shepard wrote her "his wife was drinking herself to death and he was sure she would never recover."

Another letter, bearing an endearing salutation, she testified, was mailed to her from one-half to two hours after the death of his wife. It said:

"I was best, she suffered so severely in her illness, I feel that I have done everything I could to save her."

As he did so, the gun discharged, the bullet tearing through his chest, killing him almost instantly. Ernest Palmer, 38, wealthy Neillsville farmer, was accidentally shot and killed near Shawano.

PROBE STATE MEAT AND BREAD PRICES

Claim Retail Markets Do Not Conform With Wholesale Prices

Madison — (CP) — The decision to investigate retail meat and bread prices in Wisconsin followed several weeks of study, officials of the department of agriculture and markets said today.

Commissioner H. M. Knipfel late yesterday said that the commission would undertake an investigation under the leadership of Commissioner W. F. Renk. The proposed investigation came as a result of complaints that the retail prices on meat and bread differed widely from wholesale prices.

Commissioner Renk was not in Madison today, but other officials of the department said the commission has under consideration a plan to publish daily the wholesale prices of various foods for the guidance of shoppers.

According to Mr. Renk's story, retail prices on various foods do not reflect fluctuations or drops in wholesale prices and represent too great a margin, Mr. Knipfel said. Part of the study was made while Mr. Renk was visiting Chicago stockyards and packers.

Although wheat is at the lowest price in years, the price of bread does not reflect the drop, the commission pointed out.

"It's going to be a hard winter and many persons will have to learn what things to buy to get the most for their money," one official who asked that his name be withheld, said. "To date the mild weather has been a great help in postponing hardships."

14 ARRESTED IN CHILE IN BOMBING CONSPIRACY

Santiago, de Chile — (CP) — Police today held 14 persons, among them professors, students, lawyers and merchants, in connection with an attempt on the life of President Colonel Carlos Ibanez last Tuesday night.

One other person was arrested but he was found to be a government agent who had worked himself into the group of conspirators.

The government bulletin said the plot to bomb the presidential train as it neared Santiago from a southern trip was developed by "a number of high persons, in conjunction with anarchists."

Armed with inside knowledge the government allowed the conspirators to place the dynamite under a railroad bridge over the Rio Haiipo before agents stepped in. Seven persons were arrested on the site and their accomplices were rounded up later.

The seven ringleaders were Luis Cea Olivares, Fernando Alonso Mendez, student; Hector Saavedra Lopez, student; Hernan Larraquin, bank employee; Raul Palazuelos, law student; Alberto Pepper Castellano, architectural student, and Fernando Malra Castellon, lawyer.

WANT TO JOIN ARMY, LAND IN JAIL INSTEAD

Chickasha, Okla. — (CP) — Two Illinois boys, Angelo Genji of Cook-co, and John Novak of Harvel, came to Oklahoma to join the army, they said, but fell afoul of the law and remained today to face highway robbery charges.

Genji and Novak were arrested at Cent, Okla., by Marshal G. B. Klepper, after Billy Sells and Hayden Grimes had been robbed near Chickasha of $8 and some valuables.

The youths, both 24, said they had been robbed of $100 as they traveled toward Fort Sill, where they intended to enlist. They were only seeking to replenish their empty pockets, they pleaded, in admitting the robbery. They waived preliminary hearing and will plead next week before District Judge Willin.

New York — (CP) — Zaro Agha, the Turk whose passport indicates he is 156 years old, has abandoned, temporarily at least, the business of appearing before medical societies. He is going to play the part of a sultan in a musical show, it was announced today.

Agha is now under the management of Prince Hadji Tahar, who according to his secretary was co-director of the motion pictures "The of Bagdad" and "The Green Goddess."

"We are building an international revue about him," the prince's secretary said. "You know, dances of the nations before him as sultan. Rehearsals have begun but the date of the opening hasn't been set yet."

Young Hunter Stops News Service To Save His Life

New York — (CP) — Last Friday evening the telegraph printer which raps out Associated Press dispatches in a ticking stream in the news room of the Boise, Idaho, Statesman stopped suddenly and was silent.

Here is the routine report of what happened, as it was made to the American Telephone and Telegraph company from which the lines are leased:

"A. P. Teletype Circuit 7567 delayed 7:30-8:45 to Statesman, Boise, Idaho, account total line failure Boise and Pocatello caused by young hunter who was lost, cutting the wires."

BROKER LOSES HIS APPEAL IN 'GAMBLE' CASE

Illinois High Court Refuses to Rehear Board of Trade Case Plea

Springfield, Ill. — (CP) — The supreme court refused today to rehear the appeal of a Chicago broker from a judgment relieving a client of paying his loss in a grain futures transaction on the ground that it was a "gambling" debt.

The broker, operating on the Chicago Board of Trade, sought to compel William McCabe, a Bureau-co farmer, to fulfill the contract to purchase grain futures by which McCabe would take a loss. The lower courts, confirmed later by the appellate and supreme courts, accepted McCabe's contention that his transactions were "gambling" and absolved him of obligations.

James K. Rlordon of Chicago brokerage company which fought the case up through the Bureau-co circuit, the appellate and circuit courts, declared McCabe's dealings were not "gambling" but "speculation." They allege that McCabe is still trading on the board of trade.

His final effort to get the supreme court to reconsider the case in all its phases declared that "any one of the 1,800 members of the board is likely to be branded as a gambler if one of his clients makes a trade through him that terminates in a loss and then wishes on his contract."

HITS BOARD OF TRADE

"The decision in this case seriously affects the welfare of the Chicago Board of Trade. It is the greatest blow since the world. Illinois should be proud of it and neither the legislature or the courts should hinder it in its great public service."

The board of trade has adopted rules to prohibit its facilities from being used for gambling purposes.

"This is not a case where a farmer, ignorant of the ways of the world, has been caught in the snare of a cunning bucket shop operator. Plaintiffs in error are all farmers and operators. James K. Rlordon was a farmer but after that he divided his time between farming and trading on the board of trade. He was a seasoned trader and more than 18 years of experience before the notes in question were given and he is still buying and selling grain on the board of trade as a business."

Einstein Expects America To End Militarism And To Solve Economic Problems

Pleads for Peace

New York — (CP) — Dr. Albert Einstein, father of a scientific theory so complex that few human beings can understand it, landed today in the United States and gave to the American people by radio a simple, forceful message pleading for an end to militarism.

From the drawing room of the hotel Belgenland he spoke in German:

"Kill the monster of militarism. Your political and economic position today is such that you can entirely destroy militarism whenever you set your hand to it."

The physicist's wife translated his address.

"Your country, through its peace and labor, has reached a preeminent position in the world," Professor Einstein said. "Through your free government you have put liberty above the power of any tyranny."

A hundred reporters and cameramen met the scientist when the Belgenland reached Quarantine this morning and he jested with them in his native tongue and caused many a photographer to miss a good camera shot by making the picture man laugh just as he was about to make a picture.

Surrounded by a reporterial multitude which stood on chairs about the hotel to see over his head, Einstein sat with his wife at a table and remarked:

"This is just like a Punch and Judy show!"

"The first question," he went on, "always is 'is everybody here?' and the answer always is 'yes.' That is the question and answer now."

He evidenced his "relativity complex," however, a few minutes later when he drew a German friend aside from the phalanx of cameramen and whispered "I do not see him. I feel like I am on top of a high mountain and I do not look down."

Einstein, his gray hair standing on end in all directions, smiled only.

MORAN CASE MAY REACH JURY TODAY

"Public Enemy" Points to Large Holdings to Show He Isn't Vagrant

Frankston, Texas — (CP) — With attorneys for the state and defense making their final arguments in the vagrant case of George "Bugs" Moran, Chicago's "public enemy" and gangster, in the county court today the case was expected to go to the jury by late afternoon.

During the closing moments of the trial, Moran, upon cross-examination by Sta. A. Attorney A. V. Smith, continued to bolster up his claims of financial affluence to convince the jury that he had "wealthy means of support." Not only did he produce documents to prove that he was a third owner of a $27,000 tract of Florida land, but he exhibited receipts for stock and bond investments. He recounted how he spent his summers "hunting and fishing" at Bemidji, Minn., but insisted that was not interfere with his duties as "business promoter" for the Central Cleaners and Dyers. Moran also claimed he was in the real estate business, with an office at 6 N. Michigan-blvd., Chicago.

TEXAS POSSE SEARCHES FOR FOUR BANK BANDITS

Frankston, Texas — (CP) — Officials led a posse of northeast Texas citizens today on the trail of four bandits, two of whom were believed wounded as they fled after robbing the Frankston State bank of $11,235 yesterday.

A possible clue to the whereabouts of the robbers was furnished by a recovery near Athens last night of a truck in which the men are presumed to have escaped.

Search was directed particularly to the dry river bottoms which presented many places of concealment. The truck which focused search in the Athens area bore evidence of hard, fast driving, over muddy, almost impassable roads.

A canvas sheet was missing suggesting to officers it may have been used as a stretcher for carrying the members of the band believed wounded.

GIRL HELD FOR SLAYING JEWELRY AUCTIONEER

Salt Lake City — (CP) — Jean Dayle, 22-year-old blonde was held today on an open charge after police said she had confessed slaying Sam Frank, 65, Memphis jewelry auctioneer in a hotel room here Saturday.

Police were attempting to learn the identity of a man with whom, they said, the girl admitted planning the robbery of the salesman, but whom she refused to name.

Officers said the girl broke down and sobbed her confession only when informed her identity was known.

Frank was found dead in his hotel room Saturday morning. His skull had been fractured with a bottle and he had been gagged. An 11-carat diamond ring, a stickpin and some money was taken from him. The girl was arrested Tuesday after detectives said they traced her to a residence here through hair dye she purchased. Miss Dayle was quoted by officers as saying no one was with her when she killed Frank.

"I didn't think I could hit him that hard. I didn't know he was dead," police say she told them.

WAIT UNTIL NEW SESSION, LEADERS ASK

Swanson Joins Watson in Demand for Postponement on Protocol

F E A R S EXTRA TERM

Court Opponents Claim at Least 28 Senate Votes Against Adherence

Washington — (CP) — Postponement of consideration of the world court issue limited to the senate yesterday by President Hoover until the next session a year hence was advocated today by Senator Swanson, Democrat, Virginia, a leader of the court advocates.

The announcement by Swanson coupled with the demand of Senator Watson, the Republican leader, that the court issue not become involved in the legislative jam of the short session was believed at the senate to end any slight prospect still remaining for final action at this session.

The Virginian said it was "obvious" that the senate could not reach a vote on the court in the session ending March 4. He expressed fear the interests of adherence would be jeopardized by attempting to press for a vote now.

Meanwhile it developed today that the court foes privately claim at least 28 votes against American adherence. This total is eight more than previously counted upon by the opposition and 11 more than voted against American entry five years ago.

DOMESTIC PROBLEMS FIRST

"I favor reporting the world court to the senate from the committee at this session," said Swanson, who is ranking Democrat on the foreign relations committee.

"However, I am opposed to taking it up for debate at this session for it would only result in delay on the urgent domestic problems confronting us. It might force an extra session."

"Certainly there is no chance of its being voted upon at this session. It then could be taken up at the regular session next year at the very start."

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, a member of the foreign relations committee and advocate of the court, urged a special session of the senate after March 4 for consideration of the issue.

"It is utterly impossible during this session to dispose of the urgent and emergency legislation including the appropriation bills so as to leave any time for consideration of the court," he said. "It will be impossible to consider the court at this session."

STRESSES VALUE OF PRESS, INSURANCE FIRMS AS EDUCATORS

Noyes, President of Associated Press, Discusses Welfare Efforts

New York—(AP)—The value of the press and life insurance companies in producing an informed nation was set forth to the convention of life insurance presidents today by Frank E. Noyes, president of the Associated Press.

Saying that in normal times the press fulfills its functions of informing, explaining to and exhorting readers more broadly and more admirably than at any previous period, Mr. Noyes proceeded.

"The information regarding what is going on in the world, on which most citizens must base their beliefs and their actions, comes to them in the overwhelmingly majority of cases through the columns of their newspapers."

"A grave responsibility is thus imposed on the press and its gravity is recognized broadly by newspaper men."

"Today, a newspaper may be Democratic, Republican, conservative or radical in its leanings, but it recognizes its obligations to its readers, to give them, as nearly as may be, a balanced picture of the world's news, generally doing its missionary work in its editorial columns."

"Mr. Noyes praised the newspapers of today as vastly better than those of 50 years ago."

"The Associated Press," he continued, "exists because of the determination of its members that no privately-owned concern should have control of their main news service which is the lifeblood of their newspapers."

"This determination was and is based on our belief that the prosperity of our newspapers and indeed the safety of our Republic institutions is founded on an undivided news service."

"Granted that an informed nation is a secured nation, then it is of the utmost importance that the information supplied the nation be such as results in a truthfully-informed people, and I assert that from the Associated Press, the Canadian press and from the competing organizations the people of this continent are receiving through the newspapers a volume of accurate information regarding the happenings, the conditions, the joys, the sorrows of this old world of ours such as the world elsewhere knows nothing of and our own people never had before."

"This is of utmost importance to us as citizens because if the wells of truth are poisoned there can be no health in the drinkers of their waters."

"If distorted, biased, false reports are served to accomplish unworthy purposes, disaster must follow."

Praising the great life insurance companies of the country as second only to the press as informative agencies, Mr. Noyes called attention to their welfare and research work and the delivery to policyholders of masses of publications contributing greatly to popular instruction on health matters.

The Aid Association for Lutherans was organized in this city 23 years ago as a fraternal life insurance society for Lutherans of the Synodical conference only, for Missouri and Wisconsin synods, chiefly according to Mr. Ziegler. The organization has become an international society being licensed to do business in 46 states, District of Columbia, and Canada. The only two states excluded from the association's jurisdiction are South Carolina and Vermont, because there are no synodical churches there. The association is doing business as a fraternal society on a legal reserve basis and has met with remarkable success. Mr. Ziegler states. The membership has grown to over 81,000 adults and 10,000 children. The juvenile department was added only a few years ago. Insurance in force is over $95,000,000 with a reserve of over $10,000,000. The association has already paid over $2,000,000 in claims and returned over $2,000,000 of surplus to its members. Business has always been good with the association, and this year, in spite of the general business depression and unemployment, was the greatest year of progress in its history, according to Mr. Ziegler. The membership has increased at the rate of nearly 1,000 new members with over a million of new insurance every month.

PLEA FOR HIGH WAGES CALLED 'ECONOMIC BUNK'

St. Louis—(AP)—The current plea for maintaining the wage level to restore prosperity, in the opinion of Dr. Gus W. Dyer, professor of economics at Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn., is "the biggest piece of economic bunk ever proclaimed."

"The depression has hung on," he told members of the Manufacturers' and Merchants' association here last night, "because we have tried to keep up prices in a depression. When our leaders said wages must stay at the prosperity level, what they really said was that prices must stay at that level."

"But they say keep wages up in order to maintain buying power. How much is the buying power of 5,000,000 men with nothing to do? If that theory were true, why not double wages and have a boom? It's not to the interest of labor to hold wages up and keep people out of work."

Even Jungle Tribes Love Bessie Co-Ed, It Appears

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil—(AP)—Miss Bessie Steen of San Jose, Calif., who endured real hardships in her efforts to win a master's degree from the University of California, by way of the Brazilian jungles, today sent a collection of rare trophies to the university museum and another to a museum at Philadelphia.

The items now on their way to the United States are concrete reminders of the most exciting months of this young woman's life. Since last spring she has been living among the jungle tribes. On one trek she waded for days through the rivers, beating her way past poisonous reptiles and at one time living two days without water. She was escorted by ten men all of long experience in the jungles. But even at that she was almost kidnaped by one tribe.

One night when the party had retired a band of Indians surrounded Miss Steen's tent, but could not find the entrance. They moved over to the tent where her men were sleeping and surrounded the hammock of her escort's commander. But this man, wise in the ways of the jungles, treated the intruders as though this were merely a social call, and the Indians departed peacefully.

"They didn't want to hurt me," Miss Steen said today. "When they couldn't get into my tent they wanted to kill my escort, and then

FEWER CARS WERE REGISTERED FROM CITY IN NOVEMBER

Reductions Also Show in Total Registrations for County and State

The number of new automobiles registered in Appleton and Outagamie-co again showed a drop in November as compared with the number registered in November, 1929, according to a report from the secretary of state. Decreases already have been noted in every month this year compared to last year.

There were 24 new cars, 19 passenger and five commercial, registered in Appleton in November, as compared with 56 new cars in November, 1929, 47 passenger cars and nine commercial machines. The total numbers of new cars registered in the city in the 11 months ending, Nov. 30, was 965 as against 1,216 in the same period in 1929.

In the entire county in November there were only 38 new cars registered as compared with 93 in the same month last year. There were nine commercial cars and 29 passenger cars registered in the county last month while in November, 1929, there were 15 commercial cars and 78 passenger cars registered. A total of 1,725 cars were registered in the county to the end of November as compared with 2,267 in the first 11 months of 1929.

The same general decreases are noted in figures for the entire state. There were 2,132 cars registered in the state last month as against 2,799 in the same month last year. The total registrations for the state for the first 11 months of this year were 32,043 as against 35,296 in the same period last year.

Following is a list of cities about the same size of Appleton with the first figure showing the new registrations for November and the second, the total registrations for the first 11 months of the year:

Appleton, 24, 965; Fond du Lac, 27, 1026; Janesville, 36, 894; Manitowish, 12, 595; Madison, 8, 304; Menasha, 7, 248; Neenah, 16, 877; Oshkosh, 29, 1,072; Sheboygan, 32, 1,331.

GROCCERS ANTICIPATE LARGE HOLIDAY TRADE

With a satisfactory Thanksgiving business reported by grocery stores throughout the country, the Independent Grocers Alliance has sounded a note of optimism in the food industry, according to word received here by Appleton members. Local grocers affiliated with the organization are Gustave Tesch, August Rademacher, D. Grieshaber, L. V. Henkel, and George Bergman.

A survey of I. G. A. stores in 37 states indicates that their total volume of business for 1930 will exceed $600,000,000, a substantial increase over last year's figure of $526,000,000.

Discounting the decline of from 15 to 20 per cent in retail food prices in various parts of the country, the I. G. A. members have shown an increase in sales volume and there is every indication that their tonnage will show an even greater increase during the holiday trade.

VALLEY COUNCIL NOW COMPOSED OF 540 BOY SCOUTS

Receives "B" Rating by National Council—Fulfills All Requirements

The Valley council of boy scouts during the past year has grown to such an extent as to merit a "B" rating by the National Council in New York, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive.

The council now is composed of 540 youngsters, all of them actively affiliated with troops, while a year ago the council had a total membership of 436 youngsters.

Five new troops were added to the council since last December. Two more troops were added during the past two weeks, the Marion troop being transferred from the Oshkosh council and a new troop being organized at All Saints Episcopal church.

Twenty-three more laymen have become interested in the scout movement since last December, bringing the total to 153 troop committee men. Last year there were 130 men attached to troops.

The valley council has met every objective of the national council, both in advancement and growth. The national council during the past year urged that councils keep the number of tenderfoot scouts below the 50 per cent mark.

Last year the valley council had 227 tenderfoot scouts or 52.6 per cent of the total membership. This year, complying with national requirements, the council has 221 tenderfoot scouts or 40.9 per cent of the total membership.

The percentage of tenderfoot scouts was decreased by the rapid advances made by the youngsters. At the present time there are 171 second class scouts in the council or 31.7 per cent, while a year ago there were 35 second class scouts, or 21.4 per cent.

At the present time the council has 148 first class scouts or 27.4 per cent of the total membership. The national council has urged that the number of first class scouts be 25 or more per cent of the total membership. Last year the local council had 114 first class scouts or 26 per cent of the total membership.

DECREASE IN TRAFFIC ON RIVER LAST MONTH

There was a sharp decrease in the amount of traffic on the Fox river and Lake Winnebago during the past month, compared to October, according to a report of Nelson Wightman, federal engineer. A decrease in river and lake traffic is noticed every year during November, however, due to the lateness of the season, Mr. Wightman reports.

During the past month the locks between DePere and Portage were opened 3,487 times. Approximately 37,100 tons of freight was hauled up and down the river during the past month, and 15 passengers were transported. Most of the freight was made up of coal and equipment for paper mills in this part of the valley.

Stresses Value Of Vocational Training For Farmers

Federal Vocational Director Addresses Association at Milwaukee

Milwaukee—(AP)—More than 193,000 farmers enrolled in vocational agriculture schools this year "are learning to farm better," Dr. C. H. Lane, chief of the agricultural education service, federal board for vocational education, Washington, told the American Vocational association here today.

Training of boys over 14 years of age who desire to engage in farming as an occupation, and the assisting of adults already engaged in farming in improving their work is the primary aim of agricultural vocational education, he said.

"These schools," he said, "are providing training not only in agricultural production with its constantly enlarging demands for use of machines and mechanical power, but also in the complex activities of marketing and farm management, including business and financial programs, cooperation in community and civic activities and improvement of the farm home and farm living conditions."

Emma Pritchard Cooley, president of the National Vocational Guidance association and director of the state of Louisiana's department of vocational guidance, discussed before the teachers and specialists in vocational training "National trends in guidance procedures."

She said emphasis has shifted in this work from remedial to preventive procedures. She looked forward to "the millennium when man will become convinced of the justice of protective legislation to the youth of the country shall be protected by child labor acts, establishment of part-time schools and regulations for department of guidance in junior and senior high schools independently of the law."

George B. Meyers, professor of vocational education, University of Michigan, said the vocational teacher should look upon his or her work as a profession, rather than a trade.

Ilma L. Bagley, supervisor of teacher training in home economics at the University of California, gave the education a summary of an investigation into the home helplessness of over 700 seventh and eighth grade girls in Oakland, Calif., to illustrate her point that "the public school is in a position to train its girls and boys for more effective home living."

Other speakers included Henry W. Klonover, director of the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction; Thomas E. Baker, regional agent for the Federal Board for Vocational Education; Mary Beaman, head of the department of home economics, Ball State Teachers' college, Muncie, Ind.; and O. H. Runyan, Chicago, paper company executive and student of paper making.

MILWAUKEE YOUTH IS "L" CLUB PRESIDENT

Louis Shier, Milwaukee, was elected president of the Lawrence college "L" club at a recent meeting of letter men. Granville "Danny" Calhoun, Fond du Lac, was named vice president, and Edward Weld, Rockford, Ill., was chosen secretary.

Shier is a two-letter man, winning major letters in football and track. Calhoun, a member of Beta Sigma Phi fraternity, is captain-elect of the 1937 Viking track squad. Shier and Weld are members of Delta Iota fraternity.

ARMY WILL IGNORE UNSIGNED LETTERS

The Salvation Army mail during the past few weeks has been cluttered with anonymous letters suggesting the names of persons in need of Christmas-dinner attention. A number of these cases have been investigated, leading to the discovery that most of them are impositions. Consequently, the Salvation Army officials, whose work from now until Christmas will be particularly heavy, will no longer give cognizance to unsigned letters.

"Y" DIRECTORS HOLD DECEMBER MEETING

Directors of the Y. M. C. A. will meet at 7:30 tonight. The board will make a change in policy regarding dormitory privileges. The group also will transact routine business, and probably consider the plans of employed officers for the annual open house program Jan. 1.

BONES OF MONSTER ANIMAL FOUND IN SHERWOOD QUARRY

While blasting stone in the Clifford E. Bishop quarry at Sherwood the workmen found bones of a monster animal under a ledge of solid rock. The ledge was over 15 feet high. The men cannot account how bones of an animal could have got into a ledge of rock. It may be that in prehistoric days an earthquake may have rolled the gigantic ledge upon the animal. The bones are well preserved and may have been imbedded in the cliff for centuries.

Forest Bishop brought the bones to Nick Bruch who in turn will take them to an archeologist to find out what species of animal they belonged to and the length of time they may have been imbedded in the rocks.

FRIENDSHIP MASTER PASSION OF LIFE

Dr. J. A. Holmes Warns Kiwanians About Backslapping Friendships

Friendship is the master passion of life and the one unselfish emotion, Dr. J. A. Holmes of the Methodist church, told the Kiwanis club Wednesday noon at their weekly luncheon.

Recalling attacks on service clubs by two well known American writers in which it was charged that service club friendships are fictitious and often stimulated by song, jokes and backslapping, Dr. Holmes likened some friendships to a pump and oil are to a fountain, the latter being the best because they came from a spontaneity that produced only the best friendships.

In closing, Dr. Holmes recommended that the club devote itself to a series of personality and friendship building meetings where life histories of the members were recounted and where he believed friendships really would be formed or perhaps strengthened for, as he said, "to know everything about a man's life is to forgive everything."

NO ONE BOOK NAMED IN AWARD TO WRITER

Stockholm—(AP)—Contrary to general belief it was not for "Babbitt" or "Main Street," nor for any other particular book, that Sinclair Lewis received the 1936 Nobel prize in literature. But it was for his literary art in general.

The official citation of the Swedish academy, which awarded the prize, has just been made public here. It reads as follows:

"The 1936 Nobel prize in literature is awarded to Sinclair Lewis for his powerful and vivid art of description and his ability to use wit and humor in the creation of original characters."

The citation, which accompanied the specially engraved check for about $46,850 which Lewis received yesterday, is signed by Erik Axel Karlfeldt, permanent secretary of the academy and Anders Osterling, a fellow member and one of Sweden's foremost poets.

Library Of Congress Has Its Greatest Book Year

Washington—(AP)—The Library of Congress today reported the biggest book year in its history. It added a record number of books to the shelves; made the most notable purchase of incunabula; acquiring the highest price single book in the world; established the only college faculty functioning for library-ushers, and acquired the finest existing collection on aeronautics. The record-breaking gain of 136,632 volumes was translated as: "Twenty-two new books added to the shelves every hour of the fiscal year, Sundays and holidays included with 3,912 volumes added at the end of the year for good measure."

Purchase of the 3,000-book Volbehr collection including a Gutenberg Bible, at $150,000 was credited with placing the congressional "well with the best dozen libraries of the world in ownership of such monuments of the printer's art."

The report described as "a record year for the library."

GIRL ON STAND IN SHEPARD'S MURDER TRIAL

not want a scandal from marriage right after Mrs. Shepard's death. "Did you at that time set a date for the wedding?"

"We agreed on August, 1930,"

BOUGHT HER CAR

Miss Brandon testified that Shepard purchased a motor car for her and also paid the running expenses. She would send him an itemized bill at the end of each month and he would send a check and get the car late in November, 1929.

Objections by the defense as to evidence concerning the gifts were overruled by Judge Richard J. Hopkins. The defense contended such evidence was immaterial.

The courtroom was packed with spectators anxious to hear the girl's story. Several times when the crowd created a disturbance Judge Hopkins threatened to clear the courtroom.

She said he and his wife had not been getting along well the last five years, the girl testified, and that they had kept up congenial appearances at social functions because of his rank in the army.

Miss Brandon recovered her composure as government counsel drew from her the story of the love affair with her which the prosecution contended provided the motive for the alleged fatal poisoning of Mrs. Shepard at Fort Riley, Kas., in June, 1929.

She related that she had met Shepard about Nov. 1, 1928. At that time she said he was taking a night surgeon's course at Brooks field, San Antonio.

"Did you know Major Shepard was married?" she was asked. "Yes, I did know. I asked him if his wife objected."

The testimony did not bring out what Shepard's reply was. "He asked me if he got a divorce, whether I would marry him."

"Was there any understanding that you (this was in December, 1928, approximately nine months before Mrs. Shepard's death.)

"No."

"There was no real understanding," she explained. "He asked me if I would write to him and I told him I would."

Miss Brandon said she corresponded with Major Shepard after he returned to Fort Riley.

Members of the party were Mr. and Mrs. Al LaPlant, 615 N. Meade-st., Frank LaPlant, Baker-st., and Wilfred LaPlant, N. Morrison-st.

SNOW, COLD WEATHER ON MENU FOR FRIDAY

Appleton and vicinity was given the first real touch of Christmas atmosphere in two weeks Thursday afternoon when light snow started to fall.

By Friday morning the landscape in this section of the state will probably be covered with a blanket of snow if predictions of the weatherman materialize.

Snow with a drop in the mercury is the weatherman's offering for this vicinity Thursday night and Friday. Similar predictions have been met out throughout the middlewest for the next 24 hours.

Winds are shifting between the southwest and northwest, a good indication that weather conditions will be unsettled.

At 6 o'clock Thursday morning the mercury registered 32 degrees above zero, while at noon it registered 32 degrees above zero.

DIRECTORS TO WORK OUT PROGRAM FOR GUERNSEY BREEDERS

Officers Elected at Annual Conference of Livestock Association

BY W. F. WINSEY

The annual meeting of the Fox River Valley Guernsey Breeders' Association at the Northern Hotel, Wednesday, was the most successful ever held by the association, according to several directors of long experience.

The outstanding features were discussions of herd improvement through testing cows for production, control of contagious abortion in cattle; of patronizing state sales of Guernsey cattle; of exhibiting at the state and other fairs; cooperation among the members of the association in listing cattle and their sale by the secretary of the association.

The entertainment feature was a demonstration of rural school music by pupils of Elm Tree school of which Miss Priscilla Sharp is teacher.

Directors reelected are A. B. Kaszike, Stanley Jamison, and Albert Thiede. The committee was elected president of the association, Stanley Jamison was reelected secretary and John Spears was reelected treasurer. The president and secretary were elected as representatives to the state meeting, February 2, Madison, and W. E. Smith was elected as alternate.

As parts of the program of the association for the coming year, County Agent Gus Sell suggested the support of 4-H club members who select Guernsey calves as their projects and herd improvement through testing cows for production. "I wish we might have at least 26 Guernsey herds of Outagamie county under test in a herd improvement association," said the county agent. "Another worthwhile project is contagious abortion control," according to Sell.

Exhibiting Guernsey cattle at the state fair and consigning cattle to state Guernsey sales was proposed by Gavin McKerrrow, Pewaukee, secretary of the Wisconsin Guernsey Breeders' association, who said that 247 Guernsey cattle were exhibited at the state fair, last fall, and that 11 county herds were exhibited last fall as compared with five herds the previous year. He advised the local association to exhibit a county herd at the state fair next fall.

Dr. V. S. Larson, assistant state veterinarian, discussed contagious abortion in cattle and its methods of control. He declared that there is no cure for the disease but that it may be controlled by the adoption of sanitary methods which involve segregation of reactors after they are discovered by the blood test.

Emil Olson, Waukegan, secretary and treasurer of the Guernsey Guernsey Dairy cooperative, is marketing milk in Milwaukee and Chicago and advised labeling Guernsey milk and putting it on the market as Guernsey milk.

Emory Meltz proposed the cooperative method for the local association in finding buyers and making sales of Guernsey cattle of Outagamie county. His idea has to do with the listing of all surplus cattle with the secretary of the association so that outside buyer may be directed to the owners by the secretary.

After a discussion of the proposed last year's program, the meeting turned over final action to the board of directors. The members, however, appeared very favorable to the suggestion of Sell, Meltz, Dr. Larson, McKerrrow and Olson.

Stanley Jamison who represented the association at the last year's state meeting of Guernsey breeders presented a report of the meeting.

The musical demonstration by the pupils of the Elm Tree school, was conducted by Dr. Earl Baker of Lawrence college.

"Outagamie county has earned a splendid, national reputation for its purebred Guernsey cattle, and also for its music in the rural schools," Emory Meltz said.

"The singing of rural school pupils of Outagamie county on the trip to Washington last year, made a great impression with the people in places where stops were made," he said.

Mr. Meltz paid a tribute to Supt. A. G. Meating, to Dr. Baker and to the rural school teachers for the success of music teaching in the rural schools.

BURGLAR SCARE TOO EFFECTIVE FOR EVERYBODY

Grand Rapids, Mich.—(AP)—The elaborate scare that Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. King rigged up for burglars last night was 100 per cent successful. It scared everybody—including the Kings.

Off for an evening at the movies, the Kings posted signs outside their home reading: "This house is filled with poison gas—do not enter." Neighbors observed the signs and called the health department. Officials signs were posted much more ominous than the signs the Kings had erected.

When the Frank H. Kings came home, they observed the police signs and were afraid to enter their home, so they spent the night with friends. The police headed the story today, and decided to take no action.

VON LUCKNER MEETS CITY OFFICIALS

Received at City Hall Wednesday Afternoon by Legion Reception Group

About a half dozen Appleton legionnaires, headed by Fred Heinritz, Oney Johnston post commander, Carl Reicher, post adjutant and L. Hugo Keller, a post state commander, comprised the reception committee which greeted Count Felix von Luckner when the famous German arrived in Appleton Wednesday afternoon.

He was met at the city hall and introduced to Mayor John Goodland and other city officials and then taken on a tour of the city. He was guest at the John L. Sensesbrenner home, Neenah, Tuesday and Wednesday. He left for Chicago Wednesday night.

16 STATE SENATORS MAY SERVE GRATIS

Madison—(AP)—Whether 16 state senators in the next legislature will draw salaries for making laws or serve the state gratis will depend largely upon the generosity of their colleagues.

The sixteen members are senators who were elected two years ago and who have two more years to serve. The last legislature set the salary of legislators at $100 per month or $2,400 for the biennium.

Several months ago the state supreme court ruled that legislators could not raise their salaries while in office. Thus the new senators and assembliesmen elected last November will receive $2,400 for the biennium but the holdover senators will not benefit by their legislation.

Under the law, the holdover senators' salaries for the next two years will be fixed by the 1937 legislature. It may set the salary at not more than $500 and may refuse to give the senators any salary.

The "unsalaried" members of the senate are Elmer S. Hall, Green Bay; Oscar H. Morris, Milwaukee; Thomas M. Duncan, Milwaukee; H. B. Daggett, Milwaukee; Walter H. Hunt, River Falls; James H. Carroll, Giddens; Anton M. Miller, Kaukauna; Edward J. Roethe, Fennimore; L. J. Fellenz, Fond du Lac; Herman E. Boldt, Sheboygan Falls; Conrad Shearer, Kenosha; Walter J. Rush, Neillsville; Glenn D. Roberts, Madison; Peter J. Smith, Eau Claire; James A. Barker, Antigo; V. S. Koppel, Holman.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, read a letter from Smith to the Maine Public Utilities commission in 1924 saying the people of Maine should be more friendly to the power companies. Smith said later voters had shown this opinion to be correct.

Questioned, Smith testified he was in favor of regulation both by the federal government and the states of the transmission of power, whether generated from coal, oil or water.

He opposed government operation of power projects and contended that state regulation of public utilities has been successful.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS STILL REACH MAYOR

Another anonymous letter was received by Mayor John Goodland this week, this one intimating that certain persons receiving aid from the city have their cellars filled with "moon" which they dispense at great profit.

The mayor has had a number of letters of this type within the last few months, all of them dealing with poor relief and unemployment, and all unsigned.

Einstein Looks To U.S. To Put End To World Strife

when he spoke. The rest of the time his big brown eyes seemed to be searching for a place where they could rest without looking at strangers.

"There was only the ceiling and thither his eyes strayed often. Frau Einstein, sitting beside him, laughed aloud time and again during the interview, her keen eyes twinkling at the repartee.

The interview began with a prepared statement in which Dr. Einstein said:

"I am going straightway to Pasadena at the request of the university (the California Institute of Technology) there. The main purpose of my voyage is to allow me to take a direct part in the scientific life of an American university and to be able to discuss matters pertaining to my own branch of science with my colleagues, in a more immediate, personal way than would be possible by correspondence. Perhaps I will also give a few lectures.

"The Americans of the present time have not only contributed vastly to every form of scientific investigation all over the world, but they are also giving their most serious attention to cooperation, in a peaceful and friendly way, between all those who in every part of our globe are devoting themselves to scientific pursuits of form and variety. And I, for one, shall be very happy to set foot once more on the shores of the great republic which in the days since the end of the unfortunate world war has become the chief protagonist for every form of scientific and technical progress.

"American has already given me that perfection of methods of production with which we are all of us becoming increasingly familiar and now we have reached the point where we dare hope it will find ways and means to overcome the existing economic crisis, and furthermore, that American genius may be able to devise a definite formula which will allow this world to establish a more lasting and satisfactory balance between manufacturer and consumer than any that has existed so far.

"For this last problem, as I see it, is the most important practical issue that faces the people of the year 1936."

GOES THROUGH ORDEAL

Then the informal interview began, the ordeal which Einstein for weeks had said he dreaded.

"So," he said, "like Punch and Judy we are all here."

"Is space here, too?" he was asked.

"You will have to judge that for yourselves."

"Is time the fourth dimension?"

"Ask the spiritualists."

"Can you define your theory of relativity so that everyone will understand it?"

"No, and it would take three days to do it."

"What about Palestine?"

"If I answer that, every paper will give a different version."

"What about Hitler?"

"Hitler is living on an empty stomach. If Germany had no empty stomach I think Hitler would have no important part."

"Asked whether religion would promote peace, Einstein replied, 'until now I doubt that religion has promoted peace. For the future I am no prophet.'

"Why not leave boat and come to New York?"

"I have too many invitations. Many fine gentlemen have invited me, so many that I would have no peace, so I stay on the boat to rest—and you see how much rest I am getting."

The cameramen took the physicist bareheaded under the cold, gray, rainy skies, where a few drops of rain were gathering.

A few passers with cameras in their hands slipped into the ring of photographers.

At first, he refused to talk for the talkies. But when a six foot talkie major-domo barked out, "are you glad to be back in New York?" Einstein's sense of humor bubbled and he shot back:

"I'm not so sure."

"That broke the ice."

"What do you think of prohibition?"

"I don't drink, so it is immaterial to me."

But he did not say much more.

"How do you like America?" was the last straw and to a friend he whispered:

DRAMATIC GUILD TO CONDUCT ITS THIRD TOURNEY

Purposes Are to Encourage Playwriting in State Communities

Madison—(AP)—The Wisconsin Dramatic Guild will conduct its third annual playwriting tournament this winter, according to an announcement made by Miss Ethel Rockwell, secretary of the guild. Its purposes are to encourage playwriting in Wisconsin communities.

Five divisions are held in the annual contests which see the two best plays in each group presented at the annual drama festival, which will be held here March 1-7, 1931. The divisions are little theaters, colleges, high school churches, and other clubs and individuals.

"In this enterprise," Miss Rockwell explains, "the object of the guild is to promote and encourage dramatic art and to stimulate interest in the writing of native drama. The presentation of such plays also is valuable in serving to quicken sympathy through experiencing vicariously the emotional life of others, and in furnishing an incentive to beautiful speech."

Officers and committees of the guild have been announced by Miss Rockwell as follows:
Mrs. Laura Sherry, Milwaukee, president; Fred Buerki, Kohler, vice-president, and Miss Rockwell, secretary-treasurer.

Little theaters and urban communities committee, Malcolm Mout, Janesville; Mrs. Marion Wasserstein, Green Bay, and Mrs. Estelle Farris, Wisconsin Rapids.

Rural communities committee, H. E. Mansfield, Allenton; Mrs. Carl Felton, Madison, and Mrs. Gilbert Kirchhoff, Bassett.
Colleges, Prof. F. Theodore Clark, Lawrence of Appleton; Prof. G. J. Wasseller, Beloit; and Miss Florence Holcombe, Whitewater State Teachers college.

High schools, Fred Buerki, Kohler; Miss Marie Smith, Milwaukee; and Miss Rosa Drowsky, Tomah. Church committees, the Rev. H. H. Lumpkin and the Rev. Milo Bern, both of Madison.

CHRISTMAS TREES ARE PLENTIFUL THIS YEAR.

Christmas trees are more plentiful this season than they have been in years, according to merchants.

Ideal weather conditions have enabled cutters to enter swamps without the handicap of deep snow and slush. Cutters are able to explore the depths of the swamps where the choice trees are growing.

Hundreds of trees already have found their way to the local market and are retelling at lower prices than last year. Trees can be purchased this year at 50 cents for small ones and $1.50 and $2 for the largest.

U. W. COMMITTEE LIKES TEACHING BY RADIO

Madison—(AP)—Members of the radio research committee of the University of Wisconsin are of the opinion that the radio can teach subjects in the classroom when no qualified teacher is available.

The committee conducted an experiment in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades in 25 Dane county schools. On the committee were Professors E. B. Gordon of the school of music, John Guy Fowlkes of the school of education and H. L. Evbank of the department of speech and Miss Mary D. Webb, research assistant.

"Reports made weekly by the teachers in the experimental schools indicated that in their opinion the broadcasts were successful in arousing the students' interest and in teaching the subject matter of the course," Prof. Fowlkes said in an article in the November Journal of Education.

Sensible Advice to Rheumatic Sufferers

Warns Against Relievers
That Deaden Nerves

Thousands of well meaning people are taking the chance of being crippled for life with rheumatism.

When a rheumatic attack occurs they seek to deaden the pain with handy relievers—a method that usually ends with disastrous results. Every rheumatic sufferer knows that painful, swollen, inflamed joints and muscles are caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood.

When you drive this troublesome uric acid from the blood you are getting rid of the cause of rheumatism—relievers won't do this.

While you are taking the nerve deadening relievers the uric acid continues to penetrate further and further into the joints and tendons leaving deposits so deep seated that they cannot be reached—this often means that the takers of drugs for relief only are disabled for life.

If every person who is afflicted with rheumatic manifestations would start at once to get the uric acid out of the blood—it would perhaps mean the avoidance of crippled joints in years to come.

This can be done by taking one tablespoonful of Allenru three times a day—Allenru acts on the blood and drives from it the uric acid that causes your rheumatic agony. You can get a generous bottle of Allenru at Schlicht Bros. or any progressive druggist for 85 cents—take it with every assurance that it is a real enemy of uric acid—and of rheumatic conditions. — Take good advice—take

ATTENDANCE OF RURAL TEACHERS IS 2,088

Madison—(AP)—The attendance in rural teacher training departments in Wisconsin as of November was 2,088, according to the Wisconsin Journal of Education. There were 1720 embryo teachers in November, 1929. High school training departments have 329 pupils this year compared with 287 in 1929 while county normal schools have 1267 as compared with 1021 last year. There are 492 pupils in rural departments of teachers' colleges. In 1929 there were 412.

FRANK TO ADDRESS LIFE UNDERWRITERS

Madison—(AP)—Dr. Glenn Frank, of the University of Wisconsin, is in New York to give an address to the National Association of Life Underwriters there this week, and will interview prospective candidates to fill vacant deanships in the law school and agricultural college here. The college of agriculture deanship has been vacant since Harry L. Russell resigned July 1 to become full-time director of the Wisconsin Alumni Research foundation. Harry S. Richards, law school dean, died a year ago.

WANT 50,000 SEATS IN RANDALL STADIUM

1931 Legislature Must Grant Request for $150,- 000 for Addition

Madison—(AP)—Randall stadium, home site of the University of Wisconsin football team, will have a seating capacity of nearly 50,000 if the 1931 legislature grants a request for $150,000 for seats.

The Badger stadium, which now seats 38,000 comfortably, and 43,000 when crowded to capacity, will be enlarged by 7,000 seats on the east side of the field under the request. Ten more rows along the entire length of the playing field will be added, and the walls will be of limestone to give the stadium a harmonizing effect with the new $500,000 field house.

Whether the legislature appropriates money or not, the stadium will contain several thousand new seats next fall. The athletic department has torn down the wooden bleachers, raised above the field, and they are to be replaced by a steel structure.

Incidentally, Randall stadium will see the Badgers only four times next fall. They open with a doubleheader on Oct. 3, meet Auburn of Alabama on the following Saturday, and play Western Conference games with Purdue on Oct. 17, and Ohio State on Nov. 21.

A NEW COURTHOUSE

Although the county board of supervisors, at its November session, declined to make an appropriation this year toward the courthouse building fund, it did authorize a special committee to secure plans for a new county building. This committee now is inviting architects to submit their ideas for such a building and it is probable they will be given some consideration at the February session.

The agitation for a new courthouse is not of recent origin. It was started several years ago and the county board has shown its interest by establishing a building fund for which $100,000 was appropriated in three years. This year, however, the board failed to authorize another appropriation, probably for reasons of economy.

Consideration of the courthouse building project involves a number of highly interesting angles, all of which probably will have considerable bearing on when a new courthouse is built and where it will be located.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the property occupied by the present courthouse and jail was given to the county with the understanding that it reverts to the original donors if it is used for any other purpose. The heirs of these original donors now are scattered through many states and efforts have been made to ascertain from them whether they would consent to release the property to the county regardless of the use to which it is put.

But whether these negotiations succeed should not in the final analysis determine the location of the next county building. It is well worth considering whether the convenience of the public rather than the cost of a site should determine where the building should be erected. A new courthouse would be built to serve the county for many years, probably more than a half century, and it should be located where, over that long period, it will be most convenient for the public that uses it. The mere fact that a site can be had without cost should not be the determining factor when there might be a location better suited for a county building.

Several years ago, when agitation for a new courthouse was in its infancy, it was suggested that the city and county might well consider their problem together and determine if possible whether one building could serve both governmental units. Appleton needs a new city hall about as badly as the county needs a new courthouse. It is at least worth considering by both county and city officials whether the two governments can be housed in the same building, thereby materially reducing the cost of operation and also of building.

Combination city and county buildings are by no means experimental. There are quite a number of instances where the county seat and the county have united in a building project and their experience generally has been satisfactory.

Both county and city probably can effect a substantial saving in a project of this kind. The initial cost of construction for one large building will be less than for two smaller buildings with the same floor space and it will cost less to maintain and operate one building than two buildings.

Then there is a certain convenience to the public that would result from housing the two governmental units in the same building. Persons who have business with both the city and the county now are required to visit two buildings, situated at quite a distance from each other and they would find it much more convenient if they were in the same building. Then there are many people who constantly confuse county and city functions who visit the city hall when they should go to the courthouse, and who call on county officials when they should visit the city offices. These people, and there are many of them, also would find it much more convenient if all the offices were in the same building.

Whether the county needs a new courthouse hardly is open to question. The present building, erected in 1881, is not much more than a fire trap, in which priceless records and lives of county employees are in daily peril. Dozens of activities never dreamed of when the building was erected 50 years ago now are demanding space with the result that all the offices are so crowded that efficient work is almost an impossibility.

In view of this fact, that a new courthouse is an almost immediate necessity, it is none too early to give serious consideration to all the angles of this problem. It should be considered fairly from the standpoint of the greatest service to the largest number of people. Any mistake made now will be paid for by the next generation.

THE HORROR IN THE FOG

The horror story lies in a compartment of literature that will always be popular. In fiction, in history or in the daily newspaper, the story that sets a chill running up and down the spine is a story that never fails to be attractive.

But straight horror is not quite enough. There must be, also, an element of mystery; and, even more important, the mystery must be of a kind that seems to demand a supernatural explanation. There must be some final twist to it that ordinary cause-and-effect logic cannot touch. The reader must be asked to believe that there are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamed of in his philosophy.

So it is that this tale of the deadly fog in Belgium was, quite rightly, a front-page sensation in the newspapers. It had all of the required elements. It was the horror story at its best; and in the unexplained background of it there lurked that dreadful, chilling suggestion of malefic powers at work, that inkling of frightful forces such as Bram Stoker or Arthur Machen might have described.

Consider the matter. An abnormally heavy, wet fog blankets a peaceful bit of Belgian farmland—and, by the way, the locale of any horror story ought to be just such a matter-of-fact and placid region as that; Gothic castles and inaccessible mountain valleys are the stage-props of the amateur. This fog, then, settled down heavily. People breathed of it, clutched at their throats, and died. Whole villages stayed indoors. Cattle died, untended, in the barns. The fog was the very embodiment of evil.

And then came the investigation. Poison gas left over from the World war was indicted and found not guilty. Doctors talked vaguely of respiratory afflictions made acute by unusually clammy and humid weather. Old wives talked of the Black Death. Scientists went to dissecting rooms to pursue the riddle.

But always, in the background, there was that loophole for doubt; that port opening onto the unseen world; that incredibly frightening suggestion that here was something which scientists could never understand.

That was what made the story really gripping. Eventually, of course, the doctors will come up with some perfectly sensible explanation of everything; but in the meanwhile there is material here for many ghastly chimney-corner tales in the shadows.

THE PRICE OF BREAD

In connection with the much-talked-of decline in wheat prices, the current issue of Capper's magazine has a very pertinent comment.

The magazine points out that in 1914 when wheat was selling at 75 cents, a loaf of bread cost the city purchaser 5 cents. In 1930 wheat is again down to 75 cents—but just try to find a nickel loaf of bread in a city store or bakery!

In Boston, the magazine remarks, the price of bread today is even a trifle higher than it was last year at this time—although a barrel of flour now wholesales at an average price of $4.50, as compared with $7 in 1929. Other cities doubtless could furnish similar illustrations.

Somehow the price of bread doesn't seem to have followed the price of wheat and flour down the toboggan.

In 1859 the petroleum industry in the United States consisted of one well, 69 feet deep, capable of producing about 15 barrels a day. Since that time 700,000 oil wells have been completed in this country, half of which are active today in producing 2,600,000 barrels daily.

American manufacturers reached the highest point in production in 1929 of any previous year in history, producing goods valued at $85,000,000,000.

A LONG COMES another one of those balmy days . . . if we have much more weather like that of Wednesday we'll be getting complexes . . . "come to Wisconsin this winter where golf and swimming go on unimpeded" . . . "Wisconsin, land of winter sunning" . . . "Santa Claus wears BVD's in Wisconsin" . . . and with that a couple of cold spells will probably descend on us with a loud crash . . . well, that's alright, we were contracting a case of spring fever yesterday . . .

"HOOVER WARNS HE'LL ALLOW NO TREASURY RAIDS" (headline) Attaboy Herb, now all you have to do is order Captain Andy Mellon to hire a flock of extra guards and put a couple of detectives on Al Capone's trail. That guy won't stop at anything once he gets an idea. Sure, he may be the next mayor of Chicago.

OBSERVED ALONG THE MAIN STEM: Policemen busily checking the tires of parked automobiles and leaving his calling card with a few overtime parkers. Traffic jam of baby cabs, with young hopefuls mostly sound asleep despite the confusion. Christmas decorations looking a bit out of place in the sunshine.

Particularly prominent among wealthy Chicagoans laying low during the kidnapping scare are several well-known unmarried men.

The husband seekers must be getting determined.

A tear gas bomb went off during a meeting in Mayor Jimmy Walker's (New York) office. Which is a little severe but obviously a certain way to stop a meeting, particularly if it's tiresome.

That, Tillie, Is Real Self Control

Sometimes we can't understand President Hoover at all. Just the other day he spent the evening at Vice President Curtis' place and turned off the lights and a talking picture of the cabinet in session. But perhaps he was too much a gentleman to try to bust something up.

OBSERVATION: a college education is alright if you don't say anything about it, but somehow, your college creditors never seem to forget where you went to school.

Gripes, at the Paderewski concert: the noisy radiators, the crowd coming in between numbers, the non-musicians who insisted that they enjoyed every bit of it, the hypocrites who woke up between numbers to applaud.

ROBERT KOCH'S BIRTH

On Dec. 11, 1843, Robert Koch, a famous German physician and discoverer of the tuberculosis germ, was born at Kleuthal, Prussia.

He was nearly 30 when he began the researches in bacteriology upon which his fame chiefly rests. While a member of the Imperial Board of Health in Berlin he invented new appliances for microscopic work and new ways of staining specimens which proved of inestimable value to medical science.

Soon after he had isolated the tuberculosis germ Koch was made chief of the German commission which was sent to Egypt and India to investigate cholera. As a result he discovered in 1883 the cholera germ and in the same year published a method of inoculation to prevent anthrax.

In 1905 he was commissioned by the German government to investigate West African "sleeping sickness" and in the same year was awarded the Nobel prize for medicine. He died in 1910.

Personal Health Talks

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

THE B. C. SAGE GOES HOT AND COLD.

Quite regardless of my admonitions, the Sage of Battle Creek reiterates his very complex views about what the good Dr. Kellogg naively calls "colds" and exposure. I say the Doctor's views are complex because I can't understand them. But then, I have a single track mind. I can play the fiddle, after a fashion, but I just can't play the piano all the time. I often tried to really believe mine is a single track mind.

Last April, not April First, but later, I quoted Dr. Kellogg's current teaching that when the skin is heated to such a degree that nature pours out water upon it to cool it by evaporation, contact with a draft of cold air is highly perilous, and I intimated that was baloney, although I still concede Dr. Kellogg is generally right in whatever he says about health. One with my type of mind simply cannot understand why it is safe enough for nature to cool the skin by evaporation, yet "highly perilous" if one takes advantage of a cold draft of air to help nature. I sincerely think that Dr. Kellogg is just confusing his inborn fancies or traditions with plain common sense here. I am fairly certain that he can cite no scientific or experimental evidence to support the complex he so persistently entertains about this.

It is true, painfully true, that when one gets a bit overheated through exertion, too sudden cooling, as by a cold draft or neglect to put on one's sweater, is likely to produce much stiffness, soreness and lameness in the muscles which have been so vigorously used. But this has no bearing whatever on so-called "colds" or "taking cold," and it is clear that Dr. Kellogg does not refer to this as the "highly perilous" result of a cold draft. There is nothing perilous about such sore muscles.

This time the good Doctor does better, the I still feel his teaching is not so good. In his latest animated version he tells us that "women wear much less clothing than men, and so suffer much less from overheating, especially in warm weather, a common cause of summer colds and sinusitis."

I contend that overheating is not a cause of sinusitis, and while I don't know just what the Doctor means by "summer colds" I venture to say that no one ever caught one from overheating. But, bless your dear hearts, the good Doctor didn't mean just that. What he meant heaven only knows, but he hastens to add the foregoing obfuscation: "Of course, the cold does not come directly from the overheating."

I should say not. There are not a million dogs there—at best there are only our dog and the neighbor's cur. Of course colds don't come directly, or if I may slip in a word here, indirectly, from overheating, but let the Sage finish his argument: "A cold, a sinusitis is an acute infection."

There you have it. Simple enough when you know how. So is diphtheria. I should say not. There are not a million dogs there—at best there are only our dog and the neighbor's cur. Of course colds don't come directly, or if I may slip in a word here, indirectly, from overheating, but let the Sage finish his argument: "A cold, a sinusitis is an acute infection."

They rode around the town awhile and folks who saw them had to smile. It really was a funny sight, the load of Tinymites. Some men in the crowd were very queer toward the boys as they came near. Then Coppy said, "At night what are we going to do for lights?"

"We'll travel out across the land on roads we do not understand. I fear that we may lose our way." The Travel Man replied, "Why, this truck's fixed with lights all right. They'll brighten up our path at night. But I will buy some lanterns we can keep right by our side."

The truck was soon brought to a stop. It took about an hour to shop, 'cause there were many things to buy. One Tinymite said, "Gee, buy lots of food to take along. If we can eat tonight we'll go wrong. Just think, when we are traveling, how hungry we will be."

At last their purchasing was done. Once more the truck began to run and as they passed out of the town, the Tinymites waved good-bye. Said Coppy, "I have liked Algiers! Let's give the town three rousing cheers." That's what they did. Then Clowdy cried, "I see a hull that's high."

"I'll bet we're going to climb it, too. We'll see what this big truck can do." And sure enough, they reached the hill and started toward the top. The caterpillar truck worked great. It didn't even hesitate. "What did I tell you?" Scooty cried. "I knew I wouldn't stop!"

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — The state department has its own list of heroes—peace soldiers who died in action.

Not much is heard of them. The roll of honor extends back as far as a century and a half. The story of their heroism lies buried in records yellowed with age.

They are the men of the diplomacy or consular service in the country who died on duty.

The first entry in these old records dates back to 1780. In that year Col. William Palfrey of Massachusetts, appointed "consul to reside in France," set sail for his post on the U. S. S. Shillala. The ship was lost at sea and with her Palfrey.

One of the latest entries was made in 1924—Robert W. Imbrie of Washington, D. C., murdered by a mob of fanatics at his post as vice consul in Teheran, Persia.

TRAGEDIES
 "Between those two names" runs a long record. There are tragedies at sea, in earthquakes or other great disasters in far countries, and of Americans shot down while going about their peaceful duties.

There is, for instance, Joel Barlow of Connecticut, minister to France in 1811. He was ordered to find Napoleon in Russia and discuss with the French emperor terms of a new treaty with the United States. But the minister was caught in the famous retreat from Moscow to die of privation and exposure at Zarnowice.

Many of those were lost at sea either when going to or coming from their posts.

Alfred L. M. Gottehalck of New York, consul general at Rio de Janeiro, went to the port of missing ships with the collier Cyclops in 1913, that queer modern sea mystery.

Robert N. McNeely or North Carolina was lost when the steamship Persia was torpedoed in the Mediterranean.

LOST EN ROUTE
 James A. Holden of Massachusetts, consular agent in Santa Domingo, sailed homeward aboard a ship in 1827 which never was heard of again. John S. Merriken went down with the Lafayette in West Indian waters in 1832.

Edward W. Gardner of Massachusetts was lost en route from Samoa. Rounseville Wildman of California with his entire family was lost with the S. S. Rio de Janeiro at the entrance to the Golden Gate in 1901.

And there are many other—the list is a long one.

It has taken almost a century and a half for some of them to be recognized formally. But their names are nevertheless on the records of the state department—unsung heroes.

A horse named Commuter won out in a race on a New York track. You might imagine he'd squeeze in in a rush.

Dorothy still thinks that Ping Pong is one of those generals mixed up in the Chinese civil war.

That five-year-old boy in Kansas City who is reported to be able to read anything, may be just the one to dope out your railroad time-table.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Sunday breakfast parties, a favorite social diversion hereabouts, are witty rivals of the habitual dinner party.

Over the noon bacon tite other Sunday, talk was about Broadway gags. Somebody repeated that classic line of dramatic criticism, "Lay on, MacDuff; la; off, McBride," as a typical New York line, pointless elsewhere.

McBride, a reader in the west would have to be informed, is the name of a theater ticket broker.

The line first appeared in print in a review of "Macbeth" by the smart-writing Percy Hammond. Hammond quoted Kelcey Allen, a brother critic, the remark meaning that the production was a "turkey," a weakling—that McBride should not stock up his agency with tickets to it.

Allen, when he gave the gag to his confrere, said he had just heard it from Harry Hershfield and he told Hershfield that the first time he saw him afterward. But Hershfield said he didn't care about the credit.

Eventually, however, the line became a part of Kelcey Allen's own legend and was attributed to him so often that Hershfield thought it best to claim it.

So, says Kelcey, Hershfield made affidavits, giving the correct origin, and sent them to all the drama critics, including Kelcey Allen.

All of which merely showed how a good gag is prized by its author.

CHRISTMAS CHARITY

Cold weather comes and the Christmas campaigns for the needy cases begin.

It is a peculiar custom in the great city, so heartless and yet so charitable.

The newspapers conduct the campaigns, printing tickler tales from files of charity organizations.

Each case is one of extreme need. Without a given minimum sum, an old couple, for instance, may not get through another year. A reader whose heart and purse strings are loosened by the appeal may specify that his contribution be applied to this particular cause.

Broadway stars, noted novelists, others of fame interview some of the poor folk for the newspapers, writing about what they see in bare tenement rooms.

It is the nearest thing, perhaps to personal charity and one of the worthier moments in a city's cold life.

HOT TOWN
 Cold weather also brings out the white flag with a red ball that means skating in Central park. But there is less skating each winter.

Russell Crouse has it figured out. New York now has a population of 7,000,000 souls, he says. Each has a average temperature of 84.4. Their combined heat is enough to melt a glacier. Add to this the warmth thrown out by furnaces and other heating systems.

"It is not surprising," he concludes, "that sleighbells are stilled and skates are rusted."

BARBS

The noise abatement committee which has just been appointed in Philadelphia probably will find the city considerably quieter when the world's championship changes hands.

The best quality of hard red winter wheat, says the Department of Agriculture, is produced in the United States. Is this calculated to make Russian reds turn green with envy?

The health commissioner of Massachusetts declares that rheumatism is the outstanding chronic problem in the state. Shows you what the dampness of a wet state can do to some points.

Residents of Lincolntonville, Staten Island, N. Y., have changed the name of their town to Travis. Probably because they felt they had been walked on enough.

Bars of music, a news item says, are printed on the latest wall paper design. Just a scheme, probably, to bring out the louder tones.

You might think, observed the seasick passenger, that ocean-going ships were gambling with each other the way they pitch and toss and roll.

That five-year-old boy in Kansas City who is reported to be able to read anything, may be just the one to dope out your railroad time-table.

Dorothy still thinks that Ping Pong is one of those generals mixed up in the Chinese civil war.

HEIR TO BRITISH THRONE PLANS TO ATTEND COLLEGE

Will Surprise South Americans When He Speaks Their Language

BY MILTON BRONNER

London—At the ripe age of 36 the Prince of Wales has become a school-boy again.

And this is all the more surprising because the Prince has never been what is known as a student. Like his grandfather, the late King Edward VII, whom he so much resembles, he has never been a bookish man. He has learned by visiting lands and cities, by traversing the seven seas, by coming into close contact with all sorts and conditions of men and women and gleaming heaps of things by direct conversations.

But now he has gone back to his school days after the long interval when he left behind the text books of the British naval college and of Oxford University. He is making a serious study of the Spanish language, not so much with a view of reading its classics in the original, but with the idea of being able to hold fluent conversations in it and to make speeches. This is part of his intensive preparation for his forthcoming visit to the Argentine when he will open next spring the British Trade Exposition in Buenos Aires.

He became acquainted with the language several years ago when he visited the Argentine for the first time, being helped by one of his secretaries. Sir Godfrey Thomas, who took Spanish as part of his studies for entrance into the diplomatic service.

Now, as salesman-in-chief and booster extraordinary for British business, the Prince is going back to the Argentine. Most people may not know it, but there is an intensive struggle going on down there between America and Britain. The British were in there first and entrenched themselves in the banks and railroads and also in grain. Then came the Americans and got a stranglehold on the meat and hide business. They also got into the electrical and tram car business. Now they are fighting it out because Argentine is a good country with lots of money lying about.

That's the whenceness of the Prince's forthcoming visit. Also the whyness of his Spanish lessons. There is nothing bit or miss about them. He is going several times a week to one of the best Spanish teachers in London, recommended to him by the Spanish Ambassador. Not long ago he tried out his Spanish on the dog, so to speak, making a speech in that language to the Spanish club. Also, recently his kingwoman, Queen Ena of Spain, and her daughters have been here and he has been talking to them in Spanish.

Here is an intimate incident which shows how seriously the heir to the throne is taking things: The other day he dropped informally into a house he likes to visit to take a cup of tea with his hostess and some of her friends. One of them told me the Prince came in wearing his golf suit, as he had come straight from the golf course. Under his arm he had some books. One of the party asked him: "What are they, sir, Edgar Wallace or P. G. Wodehouse?"

The Prince smilingly handed them to his fair questioner. They were a Spanish grammar, a Spanish conversation book, a Spanish dictionary and a note book. On his way up town from the golf links, he had spent his time in the car going over his lessons.

Of course when the Prince is in Argentine the speech-making part of his trip will be easy, provided he masters Spanish pronunciations. For the Prince never makes an extemporaneous speech. What the heir to the British throne says is telegraphed around the world and he cannot afford to take chances for the inspiration of the moment. His speeches are, therefore, always carefully written out and are read by him. But his Spanish will come in very handy when he meets Argentine men of affairs, many of

RADIO TO LINK HUNDRED BANQUETS OVER WORLD

Pittsburgh, Pa.—(AP)—More than a hundred simultaneous banquets with identical menus, and with speeches carried to each by radio, will be held throughout the world on November 8 to observe the dedication of a theatre and recreation building erected by a Pittsburgh company for its employees here.

The principal banquet will be held in the new building erected by the H. J. Heinz company here, with an address by President Hoover coming to those present from Washington by wire, and being relayed to those attending other banquets in the United States and abroad. Other speakers will include Sir Henry North Thornton, head of the Canadian National Railways, and Charles Nagel, Secretary of Commerce and Labor in President Taft's cabinet.

GERMAN OPERAS IN DUBLIN
When German opera was presented in Dublin, Ireland, this season, it was greeted by large and enthusiastic audiences. Musical critics were also warm in their praise. The two favorite operas were "The Flying Dutchman" and "Hansel and Gretel," which was presented twice.

Whom do not speak English or French.
While not pretending to be a profound linguist, the Prince is, nevertheless, master of several languages. He speaks French fluently. As betrays one whose family used to have so many German connections, he also talks that language, although since the war he has become rusty in it. From his grandmother, Queen Alexandra, he learned some Danish. When he was out in Africa, he interlarded some Dutch Boer phrases in his speeches to give them and he also learned to give commands in the native dialects to the various African servants attendant upon him.

Occasionally, when he talks to the loyal people of his principality of Wales, to their intense delight and pride, he speaks a sentence or two in that jaw-breaking and difficult tongue. In these cases his tutor has been no less a person than former Prime Minister David Lloyd George.

And here is one for the United States:
As everybody knows, he has made several visits to America and each time was tremendously intrigued and amused by the salt and savor of American slang. So much so that he said to one of his English pals:

"If I had time, I would like very much to learn to speak American." Even as it is, he sometimes springs Americanisms on his friends.

ART EXHIBIT ON DISPLAY IN CITY

Etchings from Chicago Society of Etchers Can Be Seen at College

Etchings, aqua tints and dry points from the Chicago society of etchers, together with an exhibit of Spanish handwork and photographs of Spanish art comprise the December art exhibits now on display in the art alcoves of the Lawrence college library.

Pieces of the Chicago Society of etchers include the works of R. E. Bishop, Philadelphia, best known for his splendid portraits of ducks, George E. Brown, whose breakdown in health led him to become an official portrait of Arizona scenes and whose works have been highly commended and purchased by the Boston museum. "Boston Harbor" is the title of a fine etching by Sears Gallagher, and another that is attracting much attention is the aqua tint, "Black Magic," by G. K. Geerlings. This night scene of skyscraper shadows recently won a prize in a major art exhibit and has been reprinted in the art magazines of the New York Times. Other artists whose works are included in this section of the December exhibit are Gordon Grant, Beatrice Levy, whose prize etching "Orchestra Hall" is well worth seeing, and Mrs. Bertha Jaques who has had many flower portraits in previous exhibits here.

"Just Taste this Crystal White Blend of mine"

"It has the true, old-time, sugar-house flavor. I learned this blend in the Old South nearly fifty years ago," says Bill Heer. It's flavored with the finest vanilla and cane sugar syrups. But the real knack is blending at just the right times and temperatures. It's surprisingly inexpensive too!

For 47 years Bill Heer has blended and tested syrup flavors. A sample from each batch of Staley's Syrups must pass the test of his educated palate at each step in its making.

Occasionally, when he talks to the loyal people of his principality of Wales, to their intense delight and pride, he speaks a sentence or two in that jaw-breaking and difficult tongue. In these cases his tutor has been no less a person than former Prime Minister David Lloyd George.

And here is one for the United States:
As everybody knows, he has made several visits to America and each time was tremendously intrigued and amused by the salt and savor of American slang. So much so that he said to one of his English pals:

Sititis Is Attacking People, Says Society

Madison — A new disease is gradually attacking the average American. For want of a better name, it is called "sititis." It is caused from people sitting around too much and taking no exercise. It will result eventually in physical degeneracy of the race, according to the Educational Committee of the Wisconsin Medical Society in a bulletin issued today.

"The average American, men, women, and children, should shake themselves free from the menace of sititis," declares the bulletin of the Medical Society. "It is unlike the hookworm in that it is neither a parasitic or constitutional disease.

most interesting exhibit. A group of photographs of Spanish architecture, taken from the Lawrence college Carnegie collection are also on display.

The basis of the remedy for sititis is exercise.

"People sit at the radio, theatre and the automobile wheel, and the very ones who need exercise most sit at the games and cheer those who need it least.

"America has become a nation of spectators, who pay big money for the development of physical giants. Adult America is dying between the neck and the waist line from diseases that come not from without, but from within, and attack the four vital organs—the heart, the lungs, the kidneys and the liver. Physical degeneracy is becoming an increasingly important problem.

"For this reason it is vitally necessary that physical education be taught in the schools. One educator even went so far as to suggest that physical tests be made prerequisite of graduation in schools. But the average educator still thinks that education is composed of training in the three R's. Physical education does not mean the development of acrobats or the swinging of dumbbells, nor does it mean the development of great physical strength. It means rather that the youth of the land be taught again the sanity of the old expression, 'A sound mind in a sound body.'

"In several states, counties, and cities, attempts are being made to have every school child before he enters the first grade have a complete health examination. It is felt that it is the birthright of every child to be physically prepared at the start of his school life.

"A sound mind in a sound body" should be the slogan for every school.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

"YOU mean that you want to come here and be office girl?" Sue asked wonderingly after Sarah had announced that she would like to work in the Thornton Curtis, Thornton office.

Sarah nodded. "I want to find something to do. I have a little money coming in but not enough. Oh, I know it's queer. Cinderella goes back to the office again! But at least she has enough clothes and a car. And I'm going to keep them. They help. But about the job..."

"Of course they'll take you," Sue answered firmly. But secretly she was thinking that she didn't even want Sarah in the office. It was hers! Only of course, it wasn't, she reasoned blindly. It was Judge Thornton's and his wife's.

"You've got to snap out of it," she told herself sternly. "Jealousy is terrible and you can't be that way. You can't. And Sarah is grand... you know you like her..."

"I'll go tell Jack about it this minute," Sue jumped up from her chair. "Want to watch the board? You'll start your training."

Just before noon, after Sarah had gone away with the promise of a trial from Judge Thornton, Harry Becker came into the office.

"I've redeemed your ring, Sue. I've got it here now." He removed a small gray suede box from his pocket and once more there was the green flash of gypsy fires as he opened it. "I'll put it in the safe, if that's all right with you. And I'm sorry you had so much difficulty about it all."

"Can't you give it to Corrinne or sell it, Harry?" Sue asked. "It makes trouble somehow... it's not that I don't appreciate it. It's the most gorgeous stone in the world and, oh well, you know how splendid I think you've always been. But I'm afraid of the stone, Harry."

"I can understand that, Sue. It's brought you nothing but unhappiness. You had to have the unpleasantness of the theft that was made on you and now the humiliation of pawing it and Barbara getting it."

"But why can't she have it if it makes her happy? If it takes such a little to give her joy... Oh I know it's worth a fortune, but fortunes are just haubles besides the things that count..."

Harry laughed indulgently. "Still dreaming dreams, Sue, and building castles? I hope you'll never grow too practical. Corrinne never will, either. That's why I was afraid that she was back of that ring-pawing stunt. I didn't ask her. I'm taking your word for it. And Sue..."

He hesitated, and it seemed to Sue that his face was worried.

"If ever you are in trouble... if anything happens... will you promise to come to me for help? Remember, we're back of you!"

"But what could happen? What do you mean?" Sue's eyes grew almost black and there was fright in their wide depths.

"Why, nothing, of course, but I just wanted your promise. Life's rather a crooked street, you know. You can't always tell what you'll find around turnings. But you know that no matter what's happened no one would ever blame you."

"Blame me? Blame me for what?"

"Why, nothing, of course. Only I was just saying that I'm for you, Sue, that's all..."

But it seemed to Sue that a cold wind had swept over her, putting out the fires that had been dancing in her heart. There was something happening, or going to happen... She couldn't tell what. Corrinne didn't know, either. Jack didn't, for he had been so blithely confident, only... He had looked at her rather quietly and intently now and then, as though wondering if she knew something. She decided that she would ask him about it.

NEXT: Sue receives some information. (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

"DESTRUCTIVE YOUNG ANIMAL"

When mother went away on a short visit and left young Thomas aged three and a half to the mercies of Uncle Thomas and the nurse, she left a pile of blocks in the play-room and another pile in the sunny corner of the yard. "Just let him play with his blocks for an hour or so every morning and again in the afternoon, outside if it's good weather, inside if it's not and he'll be useful all right. Mary Ellen will take charge of him. Just keep an eye on him, that's all."

"Is this all the poor child has to play with?" asked Uncle Thomas, kicking the blocks about with a scornful toe. "Why don't you have some real toys for him?"

"His mother thinks he gets on very well with what he has, sir." "Well, his mother doesn't know everything about children. Even bachelor uncles know some things about little boys their mothers can't be expected to know. I'm going to get my name-sake some toys. Real ones."

First the delighted uncle offered Tommie a goat—a beautiful creature with long white hair and curly horns that ma-a-a-ed "just like real" when you loved his head for him. Tommie reached for the goat with a firm and steady hand. He turned it upside down and listened. It ma-a-a-ed splendidly. Uncle Thomas was more than pleased to see the wrapt look in his name-sake's eyes. "You see Mary? He's interested. He likes it," said he.

"Yes, sir, he would," said Mary smiling in approbation but just then, Tommie, still wearing that intent, round-eyed solemn expression tossed the goat high over his head. It landed where no goat was ever intended to land, among the glasses on the side table. "Now Tommie, you must not throw the goat around like that. You'll smash things."

"Gimme—im," murmured Tommie still intent and round-eyed. He got him and when next Uncle Thomas stopped to see how things were between young Thomas and his goat there were pieces of that poor animal in every corner of the room. "What have you been doing to the goat, Tommie?"

"He wasn't a good goat. He kept crying for his mama so I took the crying thing out of him. He wasn't a good goat."

The same thing happened to a monkey that climbed a stick and to a tin man who did slip on the floor when properly wound up. The parts of the poor creatures strewn the floor. "Destructive young animal. Mary, don't give him another thing. Blocks are good enough for him."

"Yes, sir! They are, sir," said Mary, smiling.

It is getting near toy buying time. Some useless toys are necessary to a happy Christmas, but buy those that are not so expensive and put money into good blocks, and usable toys—chairs that one can sit in; desks and tables one can use; wheel barrows that can carry a load; spades and shovels and buckets and pails that are serviceable; hammers and saws and tools that are real—not the made-up tool kit but the trademarked steel tools; things that will stand up to destructive young animals' demands. Then the destructive becomes the constructive and the unhappy the happy child. (Copyright, 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

My Neighbor Says—

Leather chairs put in storage are likely to mildew. If a little petroleum oilment is rubbed over chairs mildew will easily be removed.

Emery paper dipped in turpentine and rubbed over steel will remove rust from it.

Ribbon wound over wooden coat hangers make very attractive and useful hangers.

Never allow silver spoons stained with egg to stand. Put into cold water to soak as soon as they are removed from the table.

Save bits of soap until you have a pint, then melt them. To one part add glycerine or oatmeal for toilet use; to the rest add borax or naphtha for laundry use, or finest sea sand for scouring purposes. (Copyright, 1930, by The Associated Newspapers)

ENGLISH-SPEAKING FOLK RULE INSURANCE WORLD

New York —(AP)—Life insurance was classified today as almost a monopoly of the English speaking peoples by Frank L. Jones, vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance society of the United States, before the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

The United States, with about 6 per cent of the earth's population, have 70 per cent of the total insurance in force throughout the world, while English-speaking countries represent 85 per cent of the world's aggregate.

Life insurance in force throughout the world at the end of 1928 amounted to $128,000,000,000, a net increase of $12,000,000,000 over 1927.

RIBBED AND BRITTLE NAILS ARE UNHEALTHY

BY ALICIA HART

Sometimes certain blemishes stand in the way of handing yourself beauty in your finger tips.

I am thinking specifically of nails that are spotted white and nails that are ribbed and broken.

Both may be caused by internal disturbances and are a sign that you need the advice of a physician. Spots on the nails may be due to digestive trouble, though you have no idea you are having it. They sometimes are due to injury to the nails, such as carelessness in manicuring them when you have used your file to push back the cuticle, rather than use an orange stick.

If care in manicuring does not clear up the white spots, go to your physician and have a thorough examination. They are not healthy. You should take every care to get rid of them.

ACIDITY CAUSES RIDGES

If your nails are ribbed, that too, may be caused by an unhealthy condition. Acidity can be the cause. Since this is likely to become quite serious, it is foolish to notice that your nails are striated without having a general overhauling to see if they are not merely one of the signs nature gives you that all is not well.

Brittle nails that break are quite as unsightly as spotted or ribbed ones. But these, fortunately, can be treated by yourself.

USE OIL LOTION

In addition to this, you should dip your nails into a hot oil lotion, made of lanoline and oil of sweet almonds. Many manicurists can suggest other oil lotions which help brittle nails. There are many manufactured oils put up by scientists for just this purpose. The main thing is to keep the nails thoroughly oiled and the skin around them softened by cream.

All of these can be improved by bleaching. Nail bleaches can be had in quantity. Peroxide or plain lemon juice are good too. But when you use any bleach, be sure to soften the nails and fingers around them by using a good food cream. For bleaches are drying.

Have You Heard —

Since this is a winter of more delicacy and elegance, a packet of little colored sachet pillows would make a nice Christmas gift.

Each one of the four or six that you include in the packet should be made of a different colored taffeta, satin or organdie, to give a pleasing rainbow effect.

Two pieces of material eight by eight inches are required to make one of the new big square sachet pillows. Cut two squares of sheet cotton slightly smaller in dimensions so that when hems are taken off the silk, the cotton will fit in neatly.

Press small hems in around both pieces of silk, and spread a thick layer of the sachet between the two layers of cotton. Fitting them neatly on one side of the sachet pillow, place the other side on top and sew together, seaming the outside in over and over stitch, as fine as possible.

If you are very ambitious, you can do a quilted star on each, or some other design, by using matching silk in a running stitch. It is not necessary, however, if you put a single stitch through the very center of each pillow to hold the cotton and sachet in place.

NO NEED TO BE TIRED OUT IN MID-AFTERNOON

By Eating or Drinking Something Sweet This Zero Hour Can Be Avoided

Millions of people engaged in business have the common problem of fighting fatigue in mid-afternoon. This condition is due, not only to the fact that energy has been expended during the early part of the day, but that business invariably speeds up in the afternoon and makes its greatest demands on the worker.

Scientific tests have proved that this mid-afternoon fatigue can be overcome or lessened materially by eating or drinking something sweet. The type of nourishment which has been used in the experiments are candy, ice cream, cookies, cakes, milk, carbonated beverages and the "athlete's cocktail"—a glass of water sweetened with sugar.

It is the sugar in these snacks that refreshes the system. Of all food products, none is more quickly digested than sugar and its energy becomes available immediately.

Since candy, cakes, ice cream and sweet beverages are within reach of nearly every one there is no need to endure the "gone" feeling during the daily zero hour. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

WE WOMEN

BY BETTY BRAINERD

A MATRIMONIAL TORTOISE

"Dear Betty Brainerd: For six years I have been engaged. We were both only 19 at the time, with no experience and no money, so we decided to wait until he had one thousand dollars saved. Now, at 25, he has exactly $300 and is earning $30 a week, with little hope of ever earning more.

"My people are fairly well fixed but I have nothing and expect nothing from them. During the past few months I have mentioned several times to my friend that all my friends are getting married. But he always has the same answer—he wouldn't think of taking me out of a nice home and expecting me to live on $30 a week. What do you think? Is he in love? Will he ever marry me?"

Not unless you act immediately. Your fiancé has allowed himself to slide into a rut.

He has adopted Rip Van Winkle's philosophy of shoving his intentions always a little into the future. Rip was always going to stop drinking ale. "Just one more. That one didn't count." Tomorrow he would begin his reform. But tomorrow never came.

Tomorrow never does come. One has to grasp time by the forelock and do things today. There is never really a "convenient" time to do spring house cleaning, or fight a battle, or be ill. Yet we deal with these occurrences as we can—because we must.

Probably your fiancé tried earnestly at first. He didn't make the goal as quickly as he had expected.

And then he discovered that you were patient. You were willing to wait. He had put the wedding off once. He could do so again. There was plenty of time. He allowed himself a little frivolity this week. He could save next week. But next week he found it just as inconvenient to put away that few extra dollars.

And so today he has $300 and a slipping determination. He excuses his lack of initiative to himself as well as to you by the explanation that he does not wish to take you from a comfortable home to the sort he could provide with his salary.

Bring the issue to a showdown at once. Tell him that no matter how luxurious a home he might provide for you in years to come it could never compensate you for the wasted years of youth in which you might have been building together.

If, after you have fully explained your feeling to your fiancé, he still wishes to delay, end your engagement. There are many young men who are better to lose than to marry to one who has proved her loyalty as you have. You need not wait until middle age to find the happiness you so richly deserve.

SEND PERISHABLE GOODS VIA SPECIAL DELIVERY

Appleton residents who plan to send perishable articles via parcel post, are asked by W. H. Zuehlke, acting postmaster, to calculate the sending of the articles so they will not arrive at their destination on a Saturday or the day before a holiday. When perishable goods arrive on a holiday or late on Saturday the regular parcel post delivery service has been completed and the goods, under postal regulations, must be delivered by special delivery messenger. In these cases the special delivery charges must be collected from the person receiving the goods. Mr. Zuehlke advised that senders should either calculate the sending of perishable goods so they arrive at their destination on other than a day before a holiday or else they should prepay special delivery charges to avoid confusion and misunderstanding.

HUMAN SKELETON AT HIGH SCHOOL AGAIN DISTURBED

Menasha—"Henrietta," the human skeleton that has inhabited a cupboard of the Menasha high school science laboratory for a number of years, again has been disturbed.

For several years it has been the custom of senior science students to inscribe their initials somewhere on the bony body of the skeleton and the initials of high school students, long since graduated, may still be seen on Henrietta's bare ribs.

The skeleton since figured to science lectures at the high school, but has not been used for several years. The class of 1931 has now added its marks to the others on her bones and she has been returned to her cabinet to slumber until next year's seniors bring her out.

ARCHER TALKS TO MENASHA PUPILS

Bow and Arrow Brings Out Better Companionship, He Points Out

Menasha—Hunting with the bow and arrow brings out the better companionship of man, Art Young, noted archer and explorer, told Menasha high school students during an assembly period Wednesday. Young appeared in his regular hunting garb and illustrated a lecture on the history of archery and the use of the bow and arrow with a number of colored slides.

What were probably the most interesting features of Young's talk were his stories of lion hunting with the bow and arrow. He told of his and his son's escapes experienced while hunting lions in Africa and also told of killing a big Alaskan bear.

He never killed any game unnecessarily, Young told the high school students. He explained that he had always killed for food or to provide exhibits for museums and similar institutions.

Another feature of the address was an exhibition of target shooting and power of the bow was demonstrated by shooting an arrow through a wooden packing box. The bow is often over estimated as to accuracy and under estimated as to power, Young pointed out.

Woman Artist Kept Busy Painting Canine Pictures

New York—(AP)—Diana Thorne's idea of a perfect existence is to go about from city to city making portraits of dogs.

She has already painted or etched a good part of the canine populations of New York, Chicago, Boston and Detroit. If she lives long enough, she hopes to do all the principal cities of the United States and then start in on the small towns.

"There's Pittsburgh," she sighed today. "But first I'll have to go to St. Louis and Palm Beach."

Her nomadic existence is shared by her own three—McGillivuddy, a Scotty; Fat, a wire-haired professional model, and Queenie, a black and white cocker spaniel.

The wanderings of Miss Thorne and her canine trio are reflected in two shows which she is now putting on simultaneously in New York and in Boston. At a gallery just off Fifth-ave she has a room filled with water-color portraits and etchings of dogs—Boston and Chicago dogs, with a few from other cities for good measure.

There is an etching of Jules of Chinook, son of the lead dog in the Byrd expedition, who down in Little America, after having been brought down in a fight for the first time in his life, throttled away toward the icy horizon and never came back.

Jules lives in Cambridge, Mass., in surroundings more luxurious than any his famous sire ever knew. His wealthy master thinks so much of Jules that he bought a police dog just to keep him company.

There is a water color and an etching of Gentleman Joe, also of Boston, a setter which, Miss Thorne says, got the idea of posing more quickly than any other dog she ever knew.

There is Jimmy Boy, a red cocker spaniel, "with a terrible inferiority complex," Cobra, a black and white Great Dane of Chicago, "who weighs just one pound less than a horse," a rear view of Sandy and Peggy, two Chicago Scotties, going over a back fence, and three pampered Boston sealhams, Jimmy, Jerry and Smokey, who have a French governess.

Miss Thorne might make good money out of painting portraits of dogs if all the dogs she wanted to paint could afford to pay for their portraits.

"I charge a lot when somebody brings a dog to have its portrait done," she said today. "But I'm always running into dogs that simply must be painted, whether their owners can afford it or not, and that takes time and eats up the profits."

GERMAN PARTIES IN REICHSTAG SQUABBLES

Berlin—(AP)—The opposition parties in the Reichstag, still smarting from the conclusive defeat in assaults upon the Bruening government, today turned to squabbling among themselves and the National Socialists said they would walk out of the house hereafter every time a Social Democrat or a Communist began to speak.

"Then we'd better put in a moving sidewalk," one of the Communist leaders said.

This little tilt followed a conflict in the legal committee when the Centrists refused to meet under the chairmanship of the National Socialist, Hans Frank, charging that Frank had insulted the whole Centrist party.

COUNT TALKS WAY INTO HEARTS OF APPLETON PEOPLE

Von Luckner Provides Interesting Two Hours in Chapel Lecture

Count Felix von Luckner, a swash-buckling, kind-hearted, humorous, entertaining self-styled ambassador from Germany, last night talked his way into the hearts of more than 800 Appleton people at Lawrence Memorial chapel, where he related more of his adventures as commander of a German raider on the high seas during the World war.

It was an entertaining two hours with the giant German, whose rough, bronzed seaman's skin, lumbering stride and deep resonant voice bespoke the salty tang of the sea. He related off stories of adventures so fast that the audience could scarcely keep pace with him.

He talked with his eyes, his hands, his arms, his legs, in fact with every part of his anatomy. His voice was only a means of making the sounds. The proper expressions were provided by a punch, a jab, a stab, a leap, a bound, a wink, a smile, a hearty laugh, a crouch, and by a thousand other gesticulations or motions which served to illustrate his point.

It was Count von Luckner who broke through the British blockade with his old sailing vessel discussed as a Norwegian sailor. The count himself wore a four months beard and talked the Norwegian language fluently. All his crew had sailed on Norwegian ships and could speak the Norwegian language. The deception called for perfection and he was successful.

In the count's quaint English, with a foreign accent that is pleasing, he related how he and his men felt as if they were caught just at the edge of the blockade and boarded by British officers for inspection.

SHIP NOT LISTED

The count's ship, which then called Irma, was not listed on the records and the British wireless for information about her. An inexperienced wireless operator, on duty at London, who had a sweetheart named Irma, answered "Irma is o. k." The same message had been picked up at Liverpool and officials there immediately wired Norway for news of the ship. However, all Norway offices were closed for the Christmas holidays and before the answer was received the count and his crew had been allowed to depart, with wishes of good luck.

Storms then overtook the count's vessel and it was blown 1,800 miles off its course toward America. The count said he and his crew cursed their luck but later found that being blown off their course saved them from certain capture because their deception later was discovered and several British cruisers started in their pursuit.

Story after story was related by the count, whose little German raider sunk 500,000 tons of allied ships and never took a life. He captured hundreds of prisoners and sent them all safely to their homes.

He told of the arms possessed by his raider. These consisted of a single small cannon, which was a muzzle loader and an extension of smoke stack, 38-feet long, which could be fastened at the end of the cannon to make it appear as a 15-inch gun. He also used several other pieces of smoke stack as "guns."

EMPLOYED DECEPTION

The count recalled how he placed three men in the masts, high above the deck of the ship, to shout: "Get ready the torpedoes!" if a ship which they were attempting to capture showed signs of fight. He told of an artificial smoke maker which he kept aboard so that he could attract vessels close enough to capture.

He described the organization of the Captain's club, which was composed of 14 captains who were taken prisoner when he sank their ships. He told of the burning of a ship carrying 5,000 tons of nitrate. This was done at night to attract other vessels close enough to capture. He told of the capture of a 10,000-ton steamer carrying 8,000 bottles of whisky, 25,000 bottles of champagne and $1,000,000 in gold. The refreshments, he said, came just in time to satisfy the growing demands of the 600 prisoners aboard when the water supply was almost exhausted.

Later, the count said, he dumped the gold overboard because he was afraid the wealth might bring crime and plotting aboard ship where things were peaceful and enjoyable. All the prisoners, he said, were treated as guests.

When the ship became loaded the count captured a French vessel, put the prisoners aboard and told them to sail to Rio de Janeiro. He requested them to promise not to tell about his activities until they reached Rio de Janeiro so that he and his men would have time to escape. How these people kept their word, he also related.

HE ESCAPES AGAIN

Sixty-five British cruisers started in pursuit of von Luckner and his Sea Addler and had him surrounded when he captured a steamer. He put several of his crew aboard the steamer and sent them to the east coast of South America where they were released for help, saying the Sea Addler had them cornered off the shore of Africa. All the British cruisers started for Africa and von Luckner escaped.

He sailed to the south around Cape Horn and seriously traversed an ocean of ice bergs. His thrilling account of this daring adventure kept the audience tense. He finished his lecture with the story of how his ship was broken in a tidal wave and how he and his men escaped in a small boat of their own manufacture.

At the close of the lecture the crowd was given an unexpected treat in seeing Count von Luckner greet one of the men who served under him in the Battle of Jutland. This was Heinrich Adam, who lives near Black Creek on a farm. Mr. Adam's presence was a surprise to the count and the two sailors spent some time talking over old times.

HEAVY FEEDING OF STOCK AIDS MARKET

Madison—(P)—Heavier feeding of livestock as a result of recent severe weather has given markets a firm undertone and increased prices of some feeds, the Crop Reporting Service of the Wisconsin and U. S. Departments of Agriculture reported here today.

Mill feed prices advanced 25 cents to $1 per ton at northern markets from Boston to Minneapolis but at central western and Pacific coast markets quotations were 50 cents higher to $1.50 lower per ton than a week ago, the Crop Reporting Service said.

Cottonseed meal prices remained about the same but linseed meal prices were 50 cents to $1.50 higher at northern markets. The quotations on feeds per ton in carlots for the week ending Dec. 3 at Minneapolis were: bran $1.50; middlings or brown shorts $1.8; flour middlings or gray shorts $2.00; linseed meal $3.8.

50; cottonseed meal (43 per cent) $35.50; gluten feed $31.70.

"The United States supplies of feed grains including corn, oats, barley and grain sorghums are about 11 per cent below those of last season and about 15 per cent below the average for the five years 1924-29," the Service announced. "There is a large supply of wheat, however, much of which is being used to supplement the short feed supplies. Even so, it is not possible for the wheat supplies to make up for the shortage of corn and grain sorghum crops."

"Hay supplies are unusually small with the smallest national hay crop since 1918. Early feeding of hay has increased the shortage Wisconsin is fortunate with better than the five-year average production of feed grains and hay and with all crops being 1.0 per cent above the 10-year average which places Wisconsin as the only mid-western state having above average crop production this year."

SOCIETY IS HELPED BY REHABILITATION

Dividends to Public Are Large, Says State Vocational Leader

Milwaukee —(P)—Rehabilitation of the disabled pays big dividends to society, George P. Hambrecht, director of the state board of vocational education, told delegates to the American Vocational association convention here today.

Since 1920 the states have rehabilitated and placed in remunerative employment approximately 39,000 disabled persons at an average cost of $250 per individual, Mr. Hambrecht said.

"It costs from $300 to $500 annually to maintain an unemployed disabled person at public expense," he said. "In many cases the increased earning capacity of a person for his first year after rehabilitation is equal to, or exceeds, the cost of his rehabilitation. More than 75 per cent of the 6,000 persons rehabilitated from 1920 to 1924 had continuous employment after rehabilitation."

There were 1,581 persons rehabilitated at an average cost of $254.91 in Wisconsin during the first eight years of the state program for vocational rehabilitation, the speaker said. The average wage of these persons increased from $420.43 a year before rehabilitation to $1,132.37 after, Mr. Hambrecht said.

"Rehabilitation is a large human engineering undertaking devised for the purpose of conserving the manpower of the state," the speaker said. "Society has recognized that a person who has suffered permanent disability in pursuit of regular employment is entitled to compensation for such injury. Likewise he is entitled to such service as will re-instate him in suitable employment, providing the injury sustained disqualified him from continuing at his previous employment."

Every dollar put into rehabilitation work, the speaker said, "brings back to society a wealth return, both social and economic, commensurate with the breadth and intensity of the program projected."

Eddie Shea Wins Decision Over Fidel La Barba

CHICAGO ITALIAN NOW LISTED AMONG FEATHER CONTENDERS

Record Breaking Crowd Sees Annual Christmas Show at Cleveland

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY Associated Press Sports Writer
Cleveland, (AP)—Eddie Shea, two-fisted Italian youngster from Chicago, is up at the top of the heap today as a challenger for the world's featherweight championship. Shea moved into title range as a result of his victory over Fidel La Barba of Los Angeles before a record-breaking crowd of 12,000 in the public auditorium last night.

The match, one of three 10-round contests, was fought under the auspices of the Cleveland news which sponsored the show to raise funds for Christmas charities. It drew the biggest crowd to ever witness a boxing show in Cleveland with gate receipts at $48,500. A profit of $19,000 was realized to buy toys, candy, food and clothes for the poor kids. Shea, always boring in, was on the offensive with a heavy body attack. Referee Fatsy Halsey of New York quickly awarded the decision to the Chicago boy at the end of 10 rounds of blistering fighting. La Barba seemed to appear to tire in the closing rounds while Shea was fresh and strong. Shea frequently drove the Pacific coast lad to the ropes under a heavy body attack.

Jackie Fields of Los Angeles, former world's welterweight champion, had no trouble in defeating Paul Pirrone of Cleveland in 10 rounds, while Johnny Farr of Cleveland battled out a decision over Ray Miller, Chicago lightweight, in another 10-rounder. Farr won eight of the 10 rounds.

Previous to last night's defeat, La Barba, the conqueror of Kid Chocolate, was rated as the leading contender for the featherweight title. Shea weighed 126 pounds, with La Barba scaling 124. George Blake, manager of the Los Angeles boxer, said La Barba would be laid up for a rest before resuming ring activity.

KIMBERLY QUINTET MEETS HORTONVILLE

Little Nine Conference Teams Are Contenders for Loop Crown

Kimberly—The Red Devils, coach Harper's cagers from Kimberly high school will meet a conference foe from Hortonville in a clash at the Kimberly clubhouse Friday evening. Both squads won their first conference game. Hortonville took Bear Creek into camp easily defeating them by twenty points. Kimberly swamped Pulaski last week 22 to 0.

Coach Harper believes Hortonville will be the toughest team he will meet. Beginning last Monday he worked the boys behind locked doors. Tuesday evening both the second and first teams went over to Little Chute and played a practice game with the strong St. John team. During the games Harper's reserves were played the greater part of the time.

Raymond Versteeg a senior and former letterman from Little Chute has returned to the squad, and this sharp shooting forward should be a great help in Harper's conquest for the conference title. The two Leup brothers have been doing things this year for the local squad. Both lads play forward berths and are a great help to any coach. Leonard Monte, Kimberly's big six foot center has started to show polish and should this boy ever get going under the basket it's just too bad. Harper has two veteran men at the guard position in Schwank and Alberts.

Sports Question Box

Question—A is on first. B hits a long fly to left. A waits to see whether or not the ball will be caught. While he is waiting he is passed on the baseline by B. The umpire calls B out. My judgment of that play is that B is not technically out. The ball was not hit clean. Otherwise A would not have had to wait.

Answer—You are wrong. The ball was batted fairly enough and B violated a rule that is plain.

Question—What are the chances of a college football player making the grade with the average professional football team? Would he play as well with the pros as he did with his college?

Answer—A hard question to decide. Really a matter of opinion. Statements by these playing pro football say that the game is altogether much smarter and a star of the college game has to take some time to find himself.

HOPPE, COCHRAN TO PLAY 18.1 BILLIARDS

Chicago—(AP)—Unable to reach a decision at 18.1 biliards in a six-block match, Willie Hoppe and Welker Cochran today turned to the 18.1 variety of the game.

Each won three blocks at 18.2 with Hoppe displaying sensational form in winning the final block last night. He had an unfinished run of 247, and scored a 300 to 85 victory in three innings. Six blocks of 18.1 will be played.

LOYOLA QUILTS

When a school of 7000 students, with a brand-new concrete stadium in a city like Chicago, decides to abandon intercollegiate football, it may mean one thing, or another. Thus, Loyola, one of the first teams in the country to take up night football, suddenly quit, the intercollegiate sport after one of the most successful financial seasons the team has known. Does Loyola feel guilty of something?

ONE WAY TO PICK 'EM

Bill Cunningham, the once nifty Dartmouth football player who now is writing pieces for the Boston papers, took pen in hand the other day and picked his All-America teams. His first team was the Notre Dame varsity, from end to end, backs and all.

IT'S MURDER, MICKY

Gordon Cochrane, the man Connie Mack calls the "motor of the A's machine," apparently hasn't much to do in the off-season. Mick sent us a copy of a new song he dashed off the other day. It's murder.

MILLER CORDS WIN AT RACINE, 35-31

Zeke Rummel, Former Lawrence Star, Is Scoring Ace for Appleton Pros

With Zeke Rummel, more recently of the Lawrence college basketball squad leading the way, the Miller Cords of Appleton stepped out into big league basketball circles Wednesday evening and defeated the Western Printers of Racine, 35 and 31. The game was staged at Racine.

Rummel accounted for 1 of the Cords' points and was his team's scoring ace. He was tied by Sis Beaupre of the Racine quint who also annexed 15 points just as anyone with Sis' reputation is supposed to do.

The Cords trailed by more than a half dozen points shortly after the whistle started the game. They then staged a comeback, and the first quarter ended with the score 12 and 7 for the Printers. The Cords then started clicking off a few markers and the first half ended with the Printers trailing by a 19 and 16 score.

In the third quarter the Cords were slow in getting started and found themselves behind by a count of 25 to 22. Fourteen points were scored in the fourth and last quarter and of course the Cords coasted to a win.

Begin Drive To Sell Last Army-Navy Tickets

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Army-Navy football game Saturday is going to be a sellout if there is any means within the powers of the various people who are handling ticket sales in New York to make it one.

With a few thousand good seats still to be sold, one of the biggest selling stunts ever to be tried is scheduled to take place with a grand windup when the Navy team, arriving here tonight, joins the ballyhoo parade.

A parade up Broadway, in which a 90-piece Navy band and detachments from various Army and Navy units around New York will take part, is scheduled to start the program. The parade will end at 46th and Broadway where a concert by the band is scheduled to stimulate sales made from the 45 army trucks in which will be the line. The Navy team is due to arrive in the midst of the demonstration and to take a brief part in it.

TO BE SUCCESS

Whether or not the game is a complete sellout, the prospects are that it will be highly successful as a means of raising money for a benefit of the unemployed. And as a great football spectacle the outlook is even better. Reports from the two practice fields indicate that an offensive battle is to be expected rather than a waiting game and that each team tries to outscore its rival.

Navy's brilliant offense, which appeared in its victory over Pennsylvania last Saturday, has continued to click both at home and at West Point. The Middy regulars have progressed regularly through their "B" team in scrimmage while Army's regulars have not had much success in stopping the Plebes, who are equipped with Navy plays. The Army scoring machine, which functioned so efficiently in winning the Cadets a high place among eastern teams, also had worked wherever it der. Here are a few choice lines from the thing:

"I used to love you,
I begged you to stay;
I didn't shove you,
You just walked away.
So I'll get somebody else,
Let somebody else get you."

Wait, folks, there's more of it:

"I'd like to take you back,
I'd like to help you unpack,
But you left me before
And you'd do it some more,
So please keep off my track."

We'd rather see Mr. Cochrane catch than read his lyrics.

PRELIMINARY GAMES

Lawrence college and Appleton high school basketball teams will show tomorrow evening in the first practice games of the season at Alexander gymnasium. The Vikings will battle the St. Norbert college five and the Orange will meet the Lawrence frosh in the curtain raiser.

Both Coach Denney of the collegians and Coach Shields of the highs recognize the need for practice games, and Shields at least, has been successful in arranging them for he has his third battle tomorrow. Denney, however, is having trouble and until the Catholics from De Pere show he has no idea how successful his plan will be.

Last season a couple pre-conference games were scheduled but the opposition was poor and the Vikings gained little. St. Norbert five is reported to have several mighty clever cagers and with a new gym recently built the school is said to have entered the basketball field with a vengeance.

Next Thursday evening the Vikings are booked with the alumni team, former Lawrence cagers for several years back who can play basketball with the best of the boys. The high school opens its conference schedule at Manitowoc, Dec. 19.

STRIBLING AND GRIFFITHS READY

Heavyweight Will Battle Before 20,000 Fans in Chicago Friday

Chicago—(AP)—IV. L. "Young" Stribling of Macon, Ga., and Jerry "Tuffy" Griffiths of Sioux City, Ia., completed their battle plans today for their ten round bout in the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

Griffiths has worked steadily for three weeks to bring himself to his best form for the most important test of his heavyweight career. He finished active training Tuesday, while Stribling, who has worked little because of his frequent activity in the ring, wound up his preparation yesterday.

The Sioux City fighter apparently is in the best shape of his life, and according to a majority of the guessers he will need to be. Stribling was still a 2 to 1 favorite, chiefly because of his greater experience and harder punching. Griffiths, however, was accorded a chance to outpoint his higher ranking foe. Griffiths weighed 186 yesterday while Stribling scaled 188.

A near capacity crowd of around 20,000 is expected, with a gate of about $100,000.

CRIPPLES RETURN

West Point, N. Y.—(AP)—With the return of King and Messenger, injured ends, to the Army lineup, the Cadets' prospect of checking the Navy offensive in Saturday's game have improved considerably. Still the Army regulars have not solved the problem of how to hold off their own plebe team when it uses Navy plays.

Army's secondary defense was kept busy yesterday as the Plebes gave their version of the middy passing attack in a full speed scrimmage and the drill wound up with a special drill in pass defense.

Major Ralph I. Sasse, head coach, appeared encouraged yesterday as two of his injured players returned and made fewer predictions of disaster because of the poor condition of his squad.

USE LIGHT BACKFIELD

Annapolis, Md.—(AP)—The light weight of Navy's best backfield players has brought several clouds to the brows of their coaches, but so far it has not hampered them in tearing through the players who represent the Army team in their preparations for Saturday's big game.

Coach Bill Ingram plans to start a backfield which averages only about 165 pounds, Dale Bauer, Johnny Gannon, Lou Kira and Oscar Hagberg, and his second string backs are not much heavier. These lightweight had no trouble, however, in making big gains yesterday through a "B" squad which used Army defense formations. The situation was reversed however, when the regulars went on the defensive.

The team is scheduled to leave for New York late this afternoon after a final home practice session and will wind up its preparations in the Yankee Stadium Friday afternoon.

Two Games Played in Older Boy League, One in Young Men's Loop

PLAY in the Older Boys basketball league of the Y. M. C. A. started Tuesday evening with two games. The Young Men's loop also opened its season Tuesday evening, one game being played.

In the Older Boy league Sam Ornstein's Specials battled out a win over the Bears, members of a squad which competed in the loop last year. The score was 15 and 9 and the highly touted Bears were pretty much chastised when the game ended. Goehler, forward, was star for the Specials.

Beta chapter of the H-Y club lived up to advance notices by defeating their brother members the Soph Triangle club. The score here was 15 and 6, Stuck and Dean of the Betas being the best point getters.

DUBLINSKY SIGNED FOR BRUCE FLOWERS

Milwaukee—(AP)—Harry Dublinsky, Chicago and Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle, N. Y., Negro, have been signed to top a New Year boxing card here, promoter Tom Andrews announced yesterday.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

DUKE UNIVERSITY has been bothered by Wildcats all season ... first the Blue Devils played Davidson's Wildcats ... then the Villanova Wildcats ... then the Kentucky Wildcats ... that seems to be a favorite football designation by the way ... Northwestern's team also is called the Wildcats ... the cat family also gets a break ... Pittsburgh, where the team is called the Panthers ... and at Washington State, where the Cougars roam ... we also have the Princeton Tigers, who haven't been so terrific lately ... how is it no teams are named "ter snakes" ... or kangaroos ... and, what! no giraffes!

Army Discipline Isn't So Tough

West Point, N. Y.—(AP)—The Army-Navy game Saturday has become so important that for that one day it has been placed above the military academy regulations. Speaking at a cadet rally last night, Major-General William R. Smith, superintendent of the academy said that the game would be most strenuous and that the team would need the full support of the cadet corps. For that reason, he has decided to remit all special punishment and confinement for Saturday and permit every cadet to attend the game.

SEE SETTLEMENT OF DRAFT PROBLEM AT MAJOR CONFAB

Trades Still at Standstill; Many Veteran Players Seeking Jobs

NEW YORK—(AP)—With trading in the major league and the big minors still at a standstill while the representatives try to iron out the remaining details relative to a new draft agreement, most of the news coming from the major league meeting here has originated with a busy band of baseball's old timers who have been seeking jobs and getting them.

Some sort of a decision on the draft question was expected today as the minor league committee of nine and the major league representatives were to get together again after reporting back to their meetings on the progress made in yesterday's conference. It was understood that a joint meeting of the major leagues was to be held last night to hear the reports of the proposition made by the minors.

MINORS HOLDOUT

After the official announcement was made after yesterday's conference, it was believed that the committee had agreed on a suitable draft price but the minors were holding out for their proposition that they should be allowed to keep young players for two or three years before they can be drafted and majors want to have 15 men out on option for three years instead of eight men for two years.

The meetings of the National and American leagues were given over to discussions of various subjects ranging from the screening of parks to curb home runs to the "chain store" system without taking any action.

But down in the hotel lobbies business was moving briskly with veterans transacting most of it. Two former Athletics catchers, Vally Schang and Cy Perkins, found places with new teams, Schang going to Detroit and Perkins to the New York Yankees. Joe Dugan, former Yankee third baseman, also signed up with the Tigers as utility man. George Burns and Chief Bender, two outstanding stars of former days, talked business with John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, and it was expected they would be hired, Burns as coach and Bender as scout.

MANY SEEK JOBS

Other job seekers were old Jack Quinn, who hoped to catch on with Brooklyn, and George Sisler of the Boston Braves and Lu Blue of the St. Louis Browns, both veteran first basemen. It was understood that both had been given permission to make the best arrangements possible for their services but neither landed a new place.

Much conversation concerning possible trades among major league clubs was passed back and forth but no deals were completed. The Chicago White Sox were the center of most of the talk. Cleveland offered the White Sox Lew Fonseca in exchange for Willie Kamm without getting any response while Washington sought to obtain outfielder Carl Reynolds from Chicago. Prospects were better. Don Bush showed signs of interest in obtaining pitcher Bump Hadley, one of the players offered and an outfielder to boot. The Senators offered Joe Kuehl, young first baseman or Buddy Myer, veteran infielder.

The Boston Red Sox were understood to have offered first baseman Phil Todd to Cleveland in exchange for Johnny Hodapp but the proposition was turned down.

RALPH GREENLEAF TOPS FIELD AT CUE TOURNAY

New York, N. Y.—(AP)—With Ralph Greenleaf, apparently safe on his way to his tenth world's pocket billiard title in 11 years, interest centered today in Frank Taberski's attempt to win his first game of the tournament at Dwyer's Billiard Academy.

The gray-haired cue artist from Schenectady, N. Y., has been up among the topnotchers for so long that old timers are at a loss to explain his defeat in his first two games. Only two years ago Taberski held the world's title and last year finished third to Greenleaf and Edwin Rudolph but so far this year he has been unable to break into the victory column.

Taberski dropped his first game to Arthur Woods of New York and then fell before the erratic playing of Onofre Lauri, also of New York, yesterday.

ACCURATE KICKS WON OUT

When Myles Grane, Marquette quarterback, successfully pooted 42 and 38-yard place-kicks to beat Boston College 6 to 0 this fall, it marked the first time since 1922 that Marquette had scored twice by that method in one contest. Red Dunn scored two of them to beat Detroit 6 to 3 in 1922.

Big Ten Not Worried About Its Football

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS Copyright 1930

CHICAGO—(CFA)—The Western conference is not at all worried about the future of football as it will be played in the Big Ten. The faculty fathers, who guide conference athletics with an ultra-conservative hand, find little evidence that the game is overemphasized in the Big Ten; proselytizing has been eradicated and a few capacity crowds per season do not disturb their sense of proportion.

Action of individual colleges in abandoning football and rumors of disturbances in other sections were not even discussed at the annual conference meeting. George Huff, the veteran athletic director of Illinois, rather well expressed the sentiment of the Big Ten, when he said: "It is easier to visualize the so-called evils of intercollegiate football after a losing season."

The conference as a unit will play one of the most difficult schedules in its history next season. In addition to the usual championship games, Big Ten eleven are scheduled for 15 inter-sectional contests and every sector of the game is represented on the conference calendar.

Northwestern will meet Nebraska from the Missouri Valley and University of California, Los Angeles, from the Pacific coast. Chicago meets Yale and Arkansas; Michigan opens a series with Princeton and Ohio engages Navy and Vanderbilt. Wisconsin will play Alabama Poly and Pennsylvania while Purdue starts gridiron relations with Carnegie Tech. Minnesota has a game with Stanford and probably a date with Vanderbilt. Iowa goes south to meet the Texas Aggies and plays Pittsburgh at Iowa City.

Northwestern and Indiana meet Notre Dame and those games further the latitude of conference comity. Illinois drew six conference games for 1931 so Bob Zuppke is out of the inter-sectional program for the season.

Football in the Big Ten has the very definite province of providing the financial means necessary to carry on the mass athletics program for which reformers continually are clamoring. Every member of the Big Ten either is paying off a debt on some athletic structure or launching a building program and football has to pay the principal and interest.

It was football that built the greatest collegiate athletic plant in the world at Michigan. Ohio State with its stadium free of all indebtedness is starting a program that calls for both men's and women's gymnasiums, a natatorium, physical education building and golf course. Illinois soon will start work on an ice rink; Wisconsin dedicates a magnificent new field house on Dec. 15; Chicago soon will commence the construction of a field house. Minnesota is must build a swimming pool and Purdue is sadly in need of a field house. Football receipts must pay for every brick and trowel of mortar.

Eight members of the Western conference are state institutions and supported in part by the taxpayers. Peculiarly enough, mid-western taxpayers seem to attach a lot more importance to intercollegiate football and other sports than they do to any and all reports by the Carnegie foundation. The writer in ten years of travel around the Big Ten has heard few protests against football from the people who help keep the big state schools in motion.

At the meeting of the faculty committee the conference renewed its stance against post season games or games played on other than college grounds. In granting Northwestern permission to play Notre Dame for charity on Soldier Field, here, next fall the Big Ten made it definite that conference eleven were neither for hire nor exhibition and that any request for post season games would be roughly refused.

AND KNUTE PROBABLY HAS AN OIL BURNER

Lansford, Pa.—(AP)—A football made of anthracite coal will be presented to Knute Rockne at the annual alumni banquet at Notre Dame next month.

The ball fashioned from a solid chunk of anthracite is polished to a brilliant finish and mounted on a pedestal surrounded by a miniature field.

The field, also of anthracite, is marked with small lines to represent yard lines, stripes and two goal posts. The trophy will be presented to the noted coach by Andrew J. Rudner of Coaldale, Pa.

FRANK THOMAS NAMED GEORGIA GRID COACH

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—(AP)—Frank Thomas, University of Georgia backfield coach, will succeed Wallace Wade as head football coach at the University of Alabama when Wade leaves early in the coming year to become athletic manager at Duke University, Durham, N. C.

JERRY GLYNN NAMED OLYMPIA FIELDS PRO

Chicago—(AP)—Jerry Glynn, former golf professional at Barrington Hill, Ill., country club has been signed as pro at Olympia Fields, succeeding Jack Daray. Daray will devote his time to golf construction work.

Rockne, Ill Again, Now Ponders "What Price Glory"

BY PAUL MICKELSON Associated Press Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, IND.—(AP)—Seated on football's throne and gazing reflectively on all the trophies and testimonials of greatness he and his Notre Dame today pondered: What price glory? What price success?

He was ill, physically and mentally weary, and wondered if it was worth it all. He was tired of football, tired of the plaudits of the crowds, and yearned to cast it all aside.

TESTS ON READING

Fill Out Questionnaires Sent Out by University of Chicago

A questionnaire, sent out by the Graduate Library school of the University of Chicago to test the reading tastes of adults, was completed by students at Lawrence college during the regular student convocation Wednesday morning.

The questionnaire, which is being distributed in schools all over the country, was sent to all members of the Lawrence college Alumni reading circle and their answers will be correlated with those of the undergraduates. The questions do not give the names of specific books, but mention only the subjects, and students were asked to check those which were of great interest and about which they would like to read extensively, and to mark those in which they were not interested at all. The various fields covered by the questions included government, politics, business conditions and administration, science, hygiene, psychology, crime and travel.

After the blanks have been examined by authorities at Lawrence they will be sent to the University of Chicago where the results will be correlated with the results obtained from the various sections where the tests were administered in an effort to determine the subjects in which the average adults are most interested.

10 a. m. (Appleton time) over combined WJZ-WPAF networks.

Farm happenings of the week in the National Farm and Home hour, WJZ chain at 11:30 p. m.

American School of the Air, CBS at 1:30 p. m.

FRENCH COPS FIND HEADQUARTERS OF CRIMINAL GROUP

Public Indignation Aroused When "Mysterious House" Is Uncovered

BY MINOTT SAUNDERS
Paris—Political plotting with widespread ramifications by communists and anti-Fascists is being feverishly investigated by high French police as the result of the chance discovery of a headquarters, boldly established at Sartroville, a village near Maisons, Lafitte, outside of Paris, where the most sinister operations were conducted.

Secretaries, clerks, a sewing circle, secret meetings, mysterious wireless sets, infernal machine mechanism, strange codes and a bewildering collection of false passports are some of the things that have been discovered. A ton of documents, papers and propaganda is being scrutinized, while search is being made in France and neighboring countries for the ringleaders.

The den was discovered when one of the band, who had been "put on the spot," managed to reach the street with a bullet in his head and there collapsed. He believed he was dying and said his name was Louis Carti, an Italian, and that he had been shot by confederates who had been working with him in the cause of anti-Fascism.

IN GREAT DISORDER
Bloodstains led the police to a modest, two-story dwelling, in great disorder, and in the basement was found a freshly dug pit, apparently meant for a grave. Beside it were bags of cement that might have been used to lay a new flooring and conceal the crime for countless years.

Carti was shot in the neck from behind, but the bullet lodged between the spine and the base of the brain. When he was told he would probably recover, he closed up and refused to tell the police anything, grinning shaking his head like a Jack Diamond. Later, during a release and a high fever he related the story he was called to headquarters where he faced four men assembled as a court of justice, three of whom he knew, but the unknown addressed him:

"We are aware from a sure source that you are a traitor to us. Your activities are known," he said.

"Who says I am a traitor? I demand explanations," answered Carti.

"We have no explanations to make to you," was the answer. "This is a rule of the organization," so you know. You also know that the tribunal judges without appeal."

"I am not a traitor; it is false," cried Carti.

"It is useless to deny it, we have proof. Sit down and write."

Confused, Carti wrote a short confession. He was allowed to leave the house by a door leading into a courtyard. He had gone but a few steps, however, when he was fired upon point blank, from behind.

CONSPIRATORS NAMED BY CARTI

The police theory is that the executioners left Carti for dead, descended to the basement to prepare the grave, and that while they were gone the victim pulled himself together, staggered out into the back yard, climbed a fence and fell in the street, covered with blood; that the others returned to find he had escaped and themselves took flight rather than risk a scene outside.

Carti named three men, Angelo Cammattini, Aldo Cavallini and Remigio Bagnini, as his judges, but the fourth is believed to have been an agent who came to hold the court. Carti's movements have been traced so that the police now know that he traveled considerably, that he was expelled from Belgium as Carlo Vanni, that he entered again as Juridick Halek, a Czechoslovakian, and since then he has declared his real name to be Eros Noctani Italian. Under these various aliases he carried passports, apparently in order.

Everything in the house suggested mysterious machinations, political hatreds and ruthless vengeance. One of the documents found showed that nearly a thousand persons had been marked for death, and that apparently many executions had been carried out, but with a proof where they were done. Neighbors have recalled that a hydraulic motor on the grounds, used for pumping water, was operating about the time of the Carti shooting, and that they had heard it at various times during the day and night. As a result the police are digging all over the grounds on the theory that other victims might be found. The house also borders on the Seine, which has given the police the idea that the river might have been convenient.

A SECRET PASSAGEWAY

Among the strange secrets the house revealed was a secret passageway which led to a living room and kitchen which had apparently been occupied by one or two women. One has been identified, from photographs and papers, as Elizabeth Solokhava, rather young and pretty, with blonde hair and blue eyes; either a Russian or a Czechoslovakian.

The entire household suggested lasty flight by its queer inhabitants. A meal had been in progress and some of the food remained on the stove.

The wireless sets found were capable of communication with Italy and Russia. Many envelopes seized had been addressed in Moscow. There was a mimeograph machine hidden away, and in the same closet a rolling pin, blood-stained. Names and address of over 2000 persons, mostly Italian and Russian, were discovered, and since most of them live in or near Paris they are being questioned. The house had visitors, according to neighbors, and apparently they traveled a good deal because 22 suitcases were found, some with false bottoms concealing passports. The amount of literature taken, mostly of a propaganda nature, is enormous and the police are going through it with great care.

PUBLIC INDIGNATION AROUSED

The police have already established the police section that the Sartroville house of mystery was at least a district headquarters known as "E," which suggests that there were four others, probably, judging

GERMAN MOTTOES TO BE RESTORED IN CAPITOL

St. Paul—(P)—Restoration of German mottoes in the celebrated rathskeller of the state capital, including the injunction "Better be Topsy than Feverish," will be completed before the 1931 legislature convenes in January.

The mottoes, in flourishing German script, were painted in the murals on designs prepared by Cass Gilbert, noted architect, when the capitol was erected. Because they were in German, the mottoes were erased during the World War by order of J. A. A. Burnquist, the war governor.

Blank spaces have been on the walls where two score mottoes once stood and Gov. Christanson has ordered their return to the walls although coffee drinking has displaced beer guzzling and wine-bibbling in the rathskeller.

"Malt and hops—make fine drops," is one motto the coffee connoisseur will read as he sips his coffee. Not all of the mottoes urge the bibbler on, however, one saying that "More people get drowned in the cup than in the creek."

Other mottoes which will be returned to the walls under present plans read:

"You only may enter this house. One for all—all for one. Drink what is good and pure but not too much of it. One more for that dismal weather. Disquiet the efforts of the stove if it makes things too warm for you. A cheerful guest is always welcome. Whether you eat or drink, say grace. First test it, then praise it. Cheerful disposition and rich wine may often meet here to a happy combine. God bless your ingress and egress. Enjoy a glass after a duty well performed. Eat and drink what you have and think what you choose. Drink but don't indulge in drinking; speak but don't pick quarrels."

PRESIDENT TWO VIEWS OF MORAN'S CHARACTER

Waukegan, Ill.—(P)—Two views of the character of George Moran were before a jury in Judge Perry L. Persons' court today. One, by Moran himself, pictured an astute business man, dealer in stocks, property owner, and "adjuster of disagreements." The other, painted by the state, described him as an associate of gangsters, and as a man who had never known any lawful occupation.

The two contradictory outlines were presented at Moran's trial on a charge of vagrancy which was expected to be in the jury's hands by nightfall. The state's views were given by arresting officers.

Moran told the jury he was vice president of the Central Cleaners and Dyers company of Chicago, and that he was paid a salary of $100 a week as solicitor and adjuster of disagreements. He also said he owned 200 shares of stock in the company and several pieces of Chicago property.

Agents for the federal government were reported listening to the testimony to see if he has violated any income tax obligations.

The quills which Lord Dunsany, of Eglaross, used instead of steel pens to write his books and plays, come from his estate in Ireland.

by the evidence, in Belgium, Switzerland, Luxembourg and Italy. Communications had been received from the Komintern—Executive Committee of Moscow—through a German agent, and indications have been found of a liaison with branches in New York and Indo-China.

Great public indignation has resulted from disclosures of the Sartroville house of mystery because such high-handed political plotting has been allowed to flourish, with the result that the police are straining every nerve to break the conspirators.

NEW YORK POLICE HUMILIATED OVER CHARGES OF GRAFT

Patrolmen's Association May Repledge Loyalty in Advertisements

BY EDWIN C. HILL
New York—(CPA)—"Let me tell you this," said police commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney to this writer, "no one but a policeman can comprehend the feeling of shame and humiliation which has been stirred in the minds of the 19,000 men of the force as the result of the charges that some plainclothes men have been taking dirty money."

"This feeling is so acute that the Patrolmen's Benefit association, made up of approximately 17,000 men, is thinking of inserting a page advertisement, or perhaps a series of newspapers to let the public know on their own account, that they loathe and repudiate the crookedness and disloyalty of the comparatively few who may have been guilty of the acts of extortion and blackmail charged against them."

WILL PLEDGE LOYALTY

"Under the presidency of Patrolman Joseph Moran, the benevolent association, I am given to understand, will vote an appropriation out of their own funds to pay for full page ads by means of which they can further pledge to the people of New York city the loyalty, integrity and devotion to the public service of the overwhelming majority of the force. Although I have nothing whatever officially to do with this project, I am in sympathy with it, because it represents my own convictions, born of a lifetime of service in the department."

"Consider the position in which the whole force is placed by the accusations that have been made against a group of so-called vice squad officers. In the first place, they know by experience that the public, with former police scandals in mind—scandals of years ago—is apt to jump to conclusions and to assume that if a few men have done wrong and have proved themselves unfaithful, then the whole force may be tainted and unreliable. The public can't be blamed for taking that hasty point of view. It is only human nature. The question always arises as to how far corruption was extended when even a few are under fire. I take time to get an accurate focus on such things."

SURE OF HONESTY

"From the bottom of my heart I believe in the fundamental honesty and loyalty of the New York police department. It is my sacred conviction that with comparatively few exceptions they are honest men. Unquestionably there are disloyal men and grafters here and there, but compared to the great army of 19,000 which defends this city night and day, the proportion is surely trivial."

"Who seriously doubts what the police force would do if the citizens of New York were faced, with a serious and dangerous situation? Not a day goes by but that they voluntarily, and often out of the strict and routine line of duty, risk safety and life itself to prevent crime or arrest criminals. More men have been killed in the performance of duty already this year than have been suspended by me as a result of the current investigation. In the past five years 61 policemen have been killed doing their duty and ten or fifteen times that number have been injured."

Grand Opera And Jazz Mix In Premiere Of "Camille"

Chicago—(P)—Grand opera trimmed with jazz made its appearance in Chicago last night with the world premiere of "Camille." The Chicago Civic Opera was the scene of this unusual spectacle. The audience gave approval in a warm but somewhat reserved manner.

It was an old story, dressed up in modern clothes and manners, adapted from the novel and play by Alexandre Dumas Fils and set to music by Hamilton Forrest, 28-year-old Chicagoan and former office boy, who said he hoped it would be the forerunner of a series of truly American operas.

The "jazz opera," sung in French, lived up to the promises of its producers. It was modern in every respect, from the slang of some of its lines to the telephone on Marguerite's table. It presented "flaming youth" in a manner usually associated with Hollywood. Its music at times was of the variety that called for and got, an accompaniment of finger-snapping.

Mary Garden, making her first appearance of the season as Marguerite, "the lady of the Camellias," responded to 20 curtain calls, most of them after the second act when she led the shy, young composer on the stage to receive a tribute as the first Chicagoan to write an opera acted by the Chicago Civic company.

The newspaper critics took much the same attitude. Glenn Dillard of the Herald and Examiner called attention to the "ovation" for Forrest and added that "whatever the opinion of the musician, Mr. Forrest is not to be denied this moment of triumph."

"My impressions of the music are chaotic. There was so much noise on the stage that I frequently was unable to hear the orchestra and so much orchestral fullness that the singers could not surmount the instrumental foreground."

It is indeed not a "grand" opera in the good old style. There are no arias. There is not a sustained moment of lyric expression in the entire work."

Of Miss Garden, Gunn wrote that she had "added another famous courtesan to the long list of frail ladies she has created for the lyric stage."

Edward Moore of the Tribune wrote "It may be—one always hopes it of a new piece, particularly of a new American piece—that 'Camille' will classify as one of the successes of the 1930 operatic season. If this should be so, it will be due more than any one element to that amazing person, Mary Garden."

"She even overcame the effect of as comic a coiffure as has been seen in many seasons. Just at present I am quite unable to state whether it was good opera or good drama."

The modernistic note which drew murmurs from an audience accustomed to seeing the sombre, staid works of the older composers, reached its height in the second act with a cocktail party in the apartments of the courtesan Marguerite. Lifted to a table, she sings a modern, rhythmic melody to the delight of her swaying, finger-snapping admirers.

Although the production was up to date in every way it followed very closely the original play. Its locale is Paris. Charles Hackett had the role of Armand, Marguerite's lover, while the other principal parts were taken as follows: Prudence, Marie Claessens; Saint-Gaudens, Earle Hill; Julie, Coe Claude; M. Duval, Chase Baromeo; Count Gray, Antonio Nicolich.

FORMER MAYOR ELECTED
Vancouver, B. C.—(P)—L. D. Taylor, seven times mayor of Vancouver prior to 1928, was elected again yesterday for a two year term. He defeated Mayor W. H. Malkin by 5,088 votes.

A. J. Hall, superintendent of the city pumping station and filtration plant is confined to his home with illness.

The prospects are that the next few weeks will tell the story—if business continues to improve a public opinion will be developed in opposition to increases in taxes and the president will threaten the use of the veto power and thus curb expenditures. But if the unemployment situation grows more acute, the congressional point of view will prevail and increased appropriations will be made.

OIL INDUSTRY HAS NO FEAR OF DROP IN WORLD DEMAND

Report of Discoveries Lowering Consumption Causes No Worry

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)—Reports of discoveries and inventions which would tend to decrease consumption of petroleum and its products are causing no anxiety in the oil business. In fact the men in closest touch with the oil industry are those least worried about its future.

At the present the oil wells of the world are capable of producing more than the world can use, but there is not the slightest assurance that such conditions will continue. The fields, especially those of America, are lush now, but while a wheat field can be reaped and another crop grown, an oil field, once drained, is gone forever.

Consumption of gasoline, the major product of petroleum, has never shown a recession. Each method originated for using it more efficiently has brought increased rather than decreased consumption.

From the viewpoint of future needs, the supply of petroleum is limited. From the standpoint of immediate needs, it is excessive. The men at the head of the oil industry realize the necessity for both.

It is likely, therefore, that production will not exceed the levels maintained in 1928, while consumption is pretty sure to exceed that of 1929 or any other year.

The danger which hangs over the long-time future of the industry as a result of ill-advised production is readily seen. The United States has been producing at the rate of nearly 1,000,000,000 barrels of crude oil a year. The production of the entire world in 1929 was 1,488,604,000 barrels, with Venezuela in second place and Russia third. This is regarded as 100,000,000 barrels too much.

Since 1927, when oil was discovered in America, the whole world has produced only 18,638,505,000 barrels, of which the United States accounted for 12,249,149,000 barrels. Nothing shows more conclusively the growth of demand than the fact that while 18,249,000 barrels sufficed world needs 78 years ago, requirements today exceed 1,325,000,000 barrels a year.

In the opinion of government engineers and geologists, of oil men and of distribution authorities, the long-term future of the petroleum industry is safe. Balancing of production with consumption is bound to come, for American producers know that the most promising outlook for future oil field developments lies in Russia and they are not likely to permit dominance in world markets to go to that country through dissipation of domestic supplies.

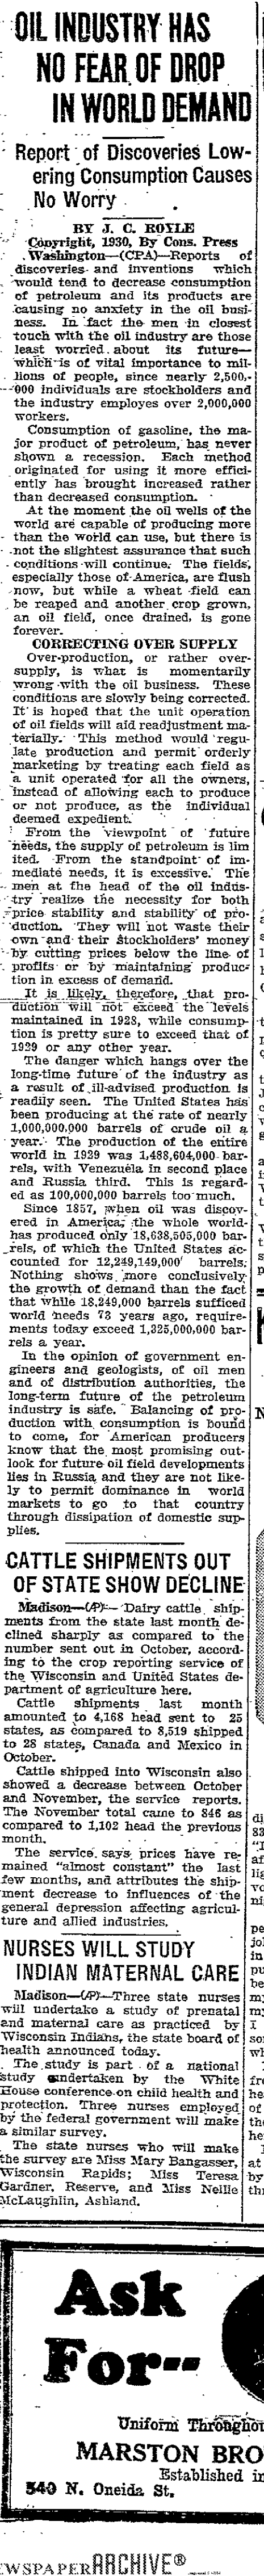

CATTLE SHIPMENTS OUT OF STATE SHOW DECLINE

Madison—(P)—Dairy cattle shipments from the state last month declined sharply as compared to the number sent out in October, according to the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States department of agriculture here.

Cattle shipments last month amounted to 4,168 head sent to 25 states, as compared to 8,519 shipped to 28 states, Canada and Mexico in October.

Cattle shipped into Wisconsin also showed a decrease between October and November, the service reports. The November total came to 846 as compared to 1,102 head the previous month.

The service says prices have remained "almost constant" the last few months, and attributes the shipments decrease to influences of the general depression affecting agriculture and allied industries.

Report of Discoveries Lowering Consumption Causes No Worry

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)—Reports of discoveries and inventions which would tend to decrease consumption of petroleum and its products are causing no anxiety in the oil business. In fact the men in closest touch with the oil industry are those least worried about its future.

At the present the oil wells of the world are capable of producing more than the world can use, but there is not the slightest assurance that such conditions will continue. The fields, especially those of America, are lush now, but while a wheat field can be reaped and another crop grown, an oil field, once drained, is gone forever.

Consumption of gasoline, the major product of petroleum, has never shown a recession. Each method originated for using it more efficiently has brought increased rather than decreased consumption.

From the viewpoint of future needs, the supply of petroleum is limited. From the standpoint of immediate needs, it is excessive. The men at the head of the oil industry realize the necessity for both.

The danger which hangs over the long-time future of the industry as a result of ill-advised production is readily seen. The United States has been producing at the rate of nearly 1,000,000,000 barrels of crude oil a year. The production of the entire world in 1929 was 1,488,604,000 barrels, with Venezuela in second place and Russia third. This is regarded as 100,000,000 barrels too much.

Since 1927, when oil was discovered in America, the whole world has produced only 18,638,505,000 barrels, of which the United States accounted for 12,249,149,000 barrels. HIGH SCHOOL FIVE OPENS SEASON WITH WIN OVER WAUPACA

Holds Visitors to Three Field Goals to Turn in 33 to 8 Victory

New London—The Red and Whites opened their basketball season Wednesday night by trouncing Waupaca high school team, 33 to 8. Stacy's squad held the visitors to three field goals and two free throws. Waupaca was able to make but one point in the first half, while New London scored four field goals and three free throws. Westfall led the attack with four goals and one free throw. Brown and Pfeiffer each had three to their credit and a free throw apiece. Floyd Raby came through with two field goals, while Reuter and Fred Raby made one each. Waupaca's scoring was done by Holman, who made two baskets, and Durant who had one to his credit. Out of 12 free throw tries Waupaca was able to make two, while New London made five out of 11 chances.

The Red and Whites looked strong on defense, although their offensive playing at times was a trifle ragged due to the fast pace the boys maintained. The squad has plenty of reserve strength, and any player leaving on fouls should not cripple the team to any great extent.

A large crowd witnessed the game. The high school band, under the direction of O. J. Hoh, played.

Old Box-stove Saved From Scrapheap; Kept As Relic

Special to Post-Crescent

Forest Junction—After being in use for 60 or more years, since the time the first church building was erected by the local congregation, a box-stove at Zion Evangelical church was retired from service this week. Associated as it was with the history of the congregation, a plea for its preservation as a relic had been entered by the Sunday school board. And when the church trustees were unfavorable to the plea and expressed their intention of consigning the stove to the scrap heap, the president of the board interceded, offered to meet junk dealers' price, and was awarded the stove for 15 cents. It will now be suitably preserved as an antique.

The stove is one of two which heated the first Evangelical church building erected by pioneer German settlers of this community soon after the close of the Civil war. In 1839, when the old church was dismantled, the stove was brought to the new church at the present village site, and has been in use in a committee room for the past 35 years. The number of 1838 cast into the door is believed to be the year of its manufacture. It bears the name of Jewett & Root of Buffalo, N. Y., as manufacturers.

SPECULATE ON NEW ROUTE OF HIGHWAY

Crew of State Highway Engineers Active Near Forest Junction

Forest Junction—Conjectures as to the possible course of the re-located Highway 57 through or around this village have been rife during the past two weeks, with the presence of a crew of state highway engineers working out from the division headquarters at Green Bay.

The highway, which is included in the five-year paving program launched this year by Calumet-co is expected to generally adhere to the west side of the C. M. St. P. and P. railroad tracks. That course through the village, however, would entail its passage on a 50-foot street closely beset with the offices of the present business establishments here. Its anticipated junction here with Federal Highway 10, and a crossing of the C. M. St. P. and P. C. and N. W. railroads add to the complications.

Numerous surveys of the locality and of various possible courses have been made ever since last summer, as the state highway commission has been considering the problem. Highway 57 at present lies one and one-half miles west of the village, and Highway 10 less than one-quarter mile north.

The $30 rate will be divided as follows: State and county tax, $10; school tax, $25.00; village tax, $8.25; water tax, $5; sewer tax, $2.50; band tax, 75 cents.

The final score that game was 3 to 7 in favor of the home team. EDITOR ADDRESSES CHILTON KIWANIS

Special to Post-Crescent

Chilton—The Kiwanis club met at Hotel Chilton Tuesday evening to hear an address by W. McHale, new owner and editor of the Chilton Times. The speaker contrasted the city and the smaller towns, villages and rural districts from the standpoint of advantages offered of present day youth.

If the young men and women of the rural towns have fewer opportunities to see and read the latest in life, they have greater opportunities to read and re-read the few good books they have, he pointed out. They have a direct contact with nature that gives a reality to life not likely to be found in the life of the city dweller, he said.

Now that industrial depression is bearing so strongly on the national industrial life, the inhabitants of the rural districts have the satisfaction of an abundance of the necessities of life, even though the price of farm produce is lamentably low, he stated. The owner of a farm has many advantages over the industrial laborer in the city, the speaker declared.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. August Geiser of Charlesburg, on Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Louis Ortleb entertained the mid-week bridge club at her home on Wednesday afternoon. Honors went to Mrs. Alfred Schaf and Mrs. John Rupp.

The city street department has installed lights along the shore of the river in order to illuminate the ice for skating. The river has been flooded so that there is sufficient ice for skating.

FINE COLLECTION OF PAINTINGS IS OWNED BY SCHOOL

Pictures Are Gifts of Graduation Classes, City Organizations

Kaukauna—During the past few years reproduction of famous paintings have been received at the high school until quite a valuable collection has been made. The pictures are of various sizes and are being loaned to the city organizations and other organizations of the city. These adorn the walls in the halls and rooms of the buildings.

Reproductions of historical paintings portraying significant events in the history of England were donated by the graduating class of 1928. The series is composed of six panels and are reproductions of the six panels which decorate the House of Commons as a gift from the House of Lords.

One picture contains three panels. One was offered by Lord Stanmore and painted by Frank Salisbury, which represents "Cardinal Wolsey at the Trial of Catherine of Aragon and Henry VIII at Blackfriars, 1529." The second panel is entitled "The Age of Discovery" showing Henry VII granting the character to John Cabot, and his three sons prior to their voyage of exploration in 1498 and was presented by Lord Winterstoke. Another panel shows Erasmus and Thomas More visiting the children of Henry VII and was painted by Cadogan Cowper. One panel of the "Origin of the Parties" was painted by Henry A. Payne and was presented by Earl Beauchamp. The other two panels portray an incident in the Protestant Reformation painted by Ernest Board and the entry of Queen Mary I into London by Bryan Shaw. The principal theme of color is black, red and gold.

Reproductions of these historical paintings also were recently secured at Lawrence college, Appleton, and are at the college library.

Two other pictures, also presented to the school by the class of 1928, are paintings of John Constable. One picture is entitled "Hay Wain" and the other "View of the Stour."

The latest picture to be added to the already excellent collection is one of George Washington, which was made in Munich this year. It was presented to the school by the class of 1927. This huge picture is in the main corridor and can be seen on entering the school through the main entrance.

Among the other pictures that can be seen in the assembly rooms and library and in the upper corridor are "George Washington's First Reception as President" by V. J. Pades, a water and natural wood scene by A. Chabanian; a painting by Leland Curtis, American painter, picturing a tiny lake nestled in mountains; and a picture showing a covered wagon train enroute to the West at a temporary stop with some of the members in friendly conversation with Indians.

All the pictures are excellent reproductions of the work of famous painters. The Washington picture, highly prized by Principal Olin G. Dryer, was secured through the F. H. Bresler Company and was made in Munich.

ARTIFICIAL BOLSTER FOR FARM MARKETS SLIPS FROM FAVOR

Administration Won't Go Any Further Than Necessary to Give Help

BY FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

Washington—(AP)—It appears a pretty well defined policy of the administration to go no further than necessary in the artificial manipulation of farm markets.

President Hoover, in his message to the third session of the 71st congress, said:

"Economic depression cannot be cured by legislative action or executive pronouncement. Economic wounds must be healed by the action of the cells of the economic body—the producers and consumers themselves."

The first such note, interpreted in farm circles to mean dissatisfaction with emergency stabilization of farm crops as a permanent solution of our ills, was struck by Secretary Hyde who said in his annual report for the department of agriculture that supply and demand conditions cannot be set aside by legislation.

Reviewing its stabilization efforts the farm board says in its first annual report:

"The board has approached the task with courage, but not in a mood of lightly experimenting with large public funds and powerful economic forces."

The president pointed out that there had been world wide overproduction beyond even the demand of prosperous times for wheat and, to some extent, cotton.

Previously, Secretary Hyde had said the answer to overproduction was less production.

Then, as farm leaders see it, the farm board report indicated the administration's policy in the observation that measures for prevention of surpluses, through control of excessive production, are absolutely essential to stabilizing farm prices and farm incomes.

The president pointed out that while the price levels of major agricultural commodities are higher than those in other principal producing countries due to the combined result of the tariff and the operations of the farm board, wheat prices still are only about 60 per cent of the average price of 1928.

The grain stabilization corporation is holding some 110,000,000 bushels of wheat off the market to maintain prices.

HOW ECZEMA IS CONQUERED

You can banish every trace of annoying Eczema and banish it in an astonishingly short time—this time next week your skin will be nearly healed and well on the road to enchanting loveliness and beauty—but you must use Peterson's Ointment.

Peterson's possesses such remarkable healing and soothing qualities that minor pimples and blackheads go like magic—that obstinate cases of burning Eczema are gone after a few days treatment. First application takes out itching and burning.

Virgie Hawkins of Wallace, Va., writes: "I had a very bad case of Eczema. The eruptions on one of my arms were so bad I couldn't use it. I had the trouble for over a year. I got a box of Peterson's Ointment and in 3 weeks my Eczema had disappeared."

Eczema and itching skin can't withstand the powerfully healing influence of Peterson's Ointment and one 35c box will prove it. All drug stores.

ROTARIANS DISCUSS CIVIC IMPROVEMENTS

Kaukauna—Civic improvements were discussed at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club Wednesday noon at Hotel Kaukauna.

W. P. Ashe, who attended the meeting called recently by Gov. W. J. Kohler at Madison to plan relief for unemployment in the state, told of the plans made at the meeting to reach this end. Mayor B. W. Fargo discussed the new bridge to be built here. Herbert Weckwerth, head of the utility department, spoke on the improvements being made on the grounds at the municipal building and the proposed high school athletic field. L. E. Nelson talked on the work being done by the basket and veneer factory.

LICENSE FEES NEEDED BY DOGS OVER 6 MONTHS

Madison—All dogs over six months old on January 1 must pay the dog license fee called for by the state stock insurance plan. The dog license law was begun 10 years ago and has been an effective means of reimbursing farmers for livestock losses, according to O. J. Thompson, secretary of the department of agriculture and markets, and annual license fees are two dollars for female and one dollar for male dogs.

The dog license law is enforced by the help of local assessors. Mr. Thompson says. Dog license tags are ordered by the department of agriculture and markets and distributed to the local treasurers through the county clerks. Local treasurers then issue the licenses and the metal tag to the dog owners.

Of the total amount of money collected, 55 per cent is given to the counties 15 per cent to the state department of agriculture and markets. During the year 1929, the state department of agriculture and markets received $58,839.57 from the different counties and after paying for the license tags, supplies and salaries, returned $24,781.53 to the counties to be distributed to the district treasurers by county officials. The total cost of administering the dog license law was thus only $3,858.04.

CATTLE SHIPMENTS DROP LAST MONTH

Sharp Decline Noted in Comparison With Preceding Month

Madison—Dairy cattle shipments out of Wisconsin during November this year have declined sharply as compared to the number shipped out a month ago, according to the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States departments of agriculture at Madison. The total dairy cattle shipments during November were 4,165 head shipped to twenty-five states, as compared to 8,519 head shipped to twenty-eight states, Canada and Mexico in October, a decline of about 59 per cent. Thirty-six states and Canada received 5,667 Wisconsin dairy cattle in November, 1929. Illinois, because of her proximity, usually receives the largest number of Wisconsin dairy cattle, 1,367 head, or about 36 per cent of the total being shipped to that state in November. Other important customer states were New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York, and Massachusetts in the order given.

The number of dairy cattle shipped into Wisconsin during November also indicates a decrease over the number shipped in a month ago, the total for the month being 546 head compared to 1,103 head shipped in the previous month. Reporters of the Federal-State crop reporting service indicate that prices of dairy cattle have remained about constant during the past few months. Number of dairy cattle shipments is influenced by the general depression affecting agriculture and allied industries. Low prices of agriculture commodities together with shortage of feed supplies in the country generally are tending to lower demand for dairy cattle.

DAGGER by Mary Dahlberg

Chapter 38
RISEN FROM THE DEAD
 Dagger huddled down in her chair, crushed, unbelieving, at Chang's startling words. Two swift steps, and Chang was beside her.
 "Drink this," he commanded, and she obeyed him.
 A moment, and her faintness had passed.
 "Do you mean that, General?" she pleaded.
 "Yes. He was with me until a few weeks ago. He escaped out of Russia through Siberia. One of my patrols on the Mongolian border found him, delirious, starving. Fortunately, the officer in command knew him. After he had recovered sufficiently he was brought to my camp, and told me his story. He had been unhappy, and when he was taken prisoner by the Germans he decided to exchange identification papers with a dead man, and became that man. After the German revolution he escaped into Russia. But that is a long story, which he will tell you, himself, perhaps."
 Chang's eyes chilled.
 "A man must fight for his own hand," he returned implacably. "You had believed him dead. For all I know he may have ceased to love you—if he ever did."
 "He never spoke of me?" she inquired piteously.
 "He spoke of a wife who did not love him, and of his unhappiness. He read in a newspaper that his wife had married another man, and said that at last fate was on his side. He was dead, and he would remain dead."
 Dagger shivered. To have come so close! And then have missed. But instantly her thoughts returned to the practical.
 "Where is he?" she demanded.
 "The Tu-chun shrugged his shoulders.
 "To his own country. A man is happier with his own people, even if he be dead."
 "If you had told me that first day," she rebuked Chang. "By now I might be close to him."
 "You have searched for him long," the Tu-chun remarked philosophically. "What are a few weeks more? If it is fated that you will find him, you will find him. If it is fated that he will love you, he will love you. If fate wills, neither the narrow eyes flashed—"remember Chang has a destiny for you. No mean one."
 Dagger could only look at him reproachfully, and he shrugged again.
 "A man takes what he can, my dear lady," he said. "Do not be so disturbed. And by the way, treasure that lucky piece I first sent you. It enjoys a notable luck. I picked it up in the Sung-fu market when I was a green boy of sixteen. A month later I committed my first successful robbery. In a year I had my own band. It has been with me ever since. I give it to you in hope that it will work as well in your favor."
 "But yourself?" protested Dagger.
 "You should keep it. And you have given me so much."
 "So little compared with my desire," Chang replied. "No, please favor me by keeping it—at least, as an earnest that I wish you well in your quest."
 He clasped his hands, and the young officer who had received her strode out upon the terrace.
 "Your car is waiting, Mrs. Vaneering," the Tu-chun went on courteously, "and I do not like to keep you out too late. Should you see Mr. Howard, remember me to him cordially. I shall be delighted to see either or both of you again—particularly, yourself."
 He bowed.
 "I—I must thank you," exclaimed Dagger. "After all, you have been kind. You meant well."
 "Oh, quite well, I assure you," he rejoined. "In a selfish sense, of course. But one must think of himself. Goodnight, Mrs. Vaneering. I am afraid my wives will be very curious about you."
 When she left Sung-fu Dagger had no definite plan for her future, save that she must reach America as quickly as possible; but on the journey she developed a nostalgia for the Texas plains and the Figure 2.
 Practically, she told herself, she required a jumping-off place for the next stage of her search for Blaine. He would scarcely go to New York, if he wished to be considered dead. No, the probability was that he'd bury himself in some out-of-the-way hole, where he could lose his identity and build his life anew.
 She was first on the car platform when El Paso at last loomed in the distance behind a welter of tanks and signal towers.
 There was Uncle Jim, squinting anxiously from beside a new car. And McCarty—bless his heart!—McCarty, at the wheel, eyeing the descending passengers no less interestedly. Dagger walked straight up to them.
 "Don't you know me, Uncle Jim?" she demanded. "Mac, you chump! Don't you know me?"
 Jim Marley let out something between a yelp and a curse.
 "What's the matter?" protested Dagger, almost in tears. "Am I changed so?"
 "Changed?" gasped her uncle. "Yew've done groved up!"
 McCarty, grinning foolishly, had snatched off his hat, and scrambled to the ground.
 "What have yew done with yourself, Dagger?" he asked. "Yew look like one of these fine ladies in the Sunday papers. I never see such clothes—outside of a film picture."
 "But clothes haven't anything to do with me," she answered. "I'm just the same."
 Jim Marley put his two hands on her shoulders and held her off, so that he could peer down into her eyes.
 "No, yew ain't just the same, Dagger," he denied. "Yew've done groved a heap. Groved-up, like I said. Too bad, but I reckon once yew got to be a woman yew couldn't help it."
 "How's the ranch?" she inquired idly.
 "Pretty good. Might have more water, but the steers are holdin' up—if we can get a decent beef price. But that ain't so much money into cattle these days. Seems like people were eatin' greens 'stead of meat." He paused. "Got a new foreman."
 "How's that?" asked Dagger. "Do I know him?"
 "Ain't had a dependable foreman since Dick went," he made respond. "All of 'em too young or careless."
 "How's the new man?"
 "Fair. Got a heap to learn, but his heart's in his work." And when Dagger started to ask for more information: "Come on, Mac, let's get goin'."
 "But what's the hurry? I want to see everything."
 "I reckon yew'll have time plenty for 'savin' things," returned the uncle. "Right now, I want to make Casa Blanca afore sundown. Yew see, Dagger—" he hesitated—"these roads are hell. Much as yore life is worth to tackle some of 'em in the dark."
 Dagger was puzzled, but amenable, regarding, with a degree of amusement, the speed which McCarty rang up on the dashboard.
 "You never used to drive like this, Uncle Jim," she observed.
 Jim Marley removed his hat, and wiped a moist forehead.
 "Wa-all, we got to get that," he offered mildly. "See them steers, Dagger? Not so bad for a dry summer, huh?"
 "That foreman must know his business," she remarked.
 "Him?" snorted Jim Marley. "Wa'll, I ain't claimin' he's a fool, but yew might give me credit for knowin' my own ranch."
 They sped past the water-tank, and rounded to in front of Casa Blanca with a resounding blast of the horn—and scores of friendly faces, weather-tanned, dusky, Indian-red, crowded about them. "Mees Dagger!" "Howdy, Dagger!"
 Her eyes were damp as she was half lifted, half-pulled, from the car. She wasn't sorry when her uncle dragged her in the house door, calling over his shoulder: "Yew'll stay with us a piece, now. She'll stay with us a piece, now. Yew'll stay with us a piece, now. Yew'll stay with us a piece, now."

 Happiness awaits Dagger at last within the dimly lighted ranch house in tomorrow's chapter.
 Brussels—(P)—At a meeting of the Medical Congress of Belgium it was stated that of the country's 8,000,000 inhabitants, 35,000 were outright lunatics, 250,000 others on the border line, 100,000 alcoholics and 45,000 in some stage of consumption.

RADIO STATIONS RISK FUTURE IN LOTTERY DEALS

Commission Asked to Warn Chicago Broadcasters to Watch Step

By ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Pres.
Washington (CPA)—Chicago radio stations which take part in Mayor William Hale Thompson's prosperity drive, termed by postal authorities and others as an illegal lottery, risk the wrath of the federal radio authorities.

While it has no direct power of censorship, the federal radio commission can consider the programs of stations when acting on their renewals of licenses, under the broad aspect of the public service rendered.
The lottery, long outlawed as a form of gambling, is not viewed by that agency as a desirable form of entertainment for law-abiding citizens.

Tuesday the commission was petitioned by Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, to take immediate steps to warn Chicago's numerous broadcasting stations against advertising or otherwise furthering lotteries. The Thompson project, he said, is of tremendous proportions, embracing a million dollars in cash awards to be distributed among persons holding coupons which they are to obtain with each 25 per cent purchase of goods at local stores.

ASKS EARLY RULING
Although no stations have yet broadcast programs espousing the lottery, Mr. Randolph stated in his letter that "use is about to be made of one or more broadcasting stations for the purpose." This situation, he added, is or may become at any moment emergent and he therefore asked that the commission take immediate steps to bring its rulings on the subject to the attention of Chicago stations.

The commission has not yet replied to Mr. Randolph's request. Its records show, however, that in the past there have been several instances in which stations, mainly in the west, have conducted lotteries. In these cases, the commission admitted its lack of censorship powers, but pointed out that it could take into the consideration past records of stations in acting on license renewals every 30 days. Since congress has enacted statutes against the dissemination of lottery information, prohibiting the interstate transportation of lottery tickets, advertising and the like, a licensee's conduct in permitting his station to be used for lottery purposes would weigh heavily against him acting on his renewal application, it has stated.

In the light of these previous statements, Mr. Randolph makes his request of the commission. "We believe that in making these rulings," he wrote, "the commission is pursuing a sound policy which is necessary to protect the public. The possibility of public injury through the use of broadcasting stations for lottery purposes is manifestly fully as great as, if not greater than, the injury which results from similar conduct by the press."

DESCRIBES LOTTERY
Describing the purported lottery, the association executive said that the highest award is to be $100,000, with smaller ones down to $50. Local merchants and retailers are being asked to purchase these coupons at the rate of 1,000 for $2.50, he charged, but the exact manner of determining which of the coupons will entitle their holders to the prizes has not been revealed. "It seems obvious," however, he continued, "that it must be by some sort of drawing dependent on numbers placed on the coupons and that it will therefore be purely by chance."

The matter, he added, has been brought to the attention of Postmaster General Brown, who has decided that if the mails are used in furtherance of any lottery coming within the statutory prohibition, the department will refuse mailing privileges to any matter in violation of the statute. Chicago newspapers, he states, are not printing anything in furtherance of the project, and generally, the larger and more reputable business houses and the banks have refused to cooperate or take part in it.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

"SAGITTARIUS"
If December 12th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m. and from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m.

An improvement in conditions over the last few days is indicated for this date, although some unexpected disappointments may occur.
Do not offend a superior, or ask for favors at this time. Lucky for family affairs.

The children born on this December 12th will have extremely sensitive natures, and will suffer from imaginary hurts. They will have refined and artistic tastes, and will strive for peace and harmony. They will be emotional, and will be ruled by their hearts.

You have a very unusual and in-some ways an unfortunate character—you always manage to put your worst foot forward. People know where they stand with you, as you often sacrifice sincerely for the sake of your own position.
You are reserved, so much so that others call you secretive and cold.
You quickly sense any animosity of people with whom you come in contact, and instead of thawing out, you only present a more frigid exterior.

You are extremely intelligent, and worship at the shrine of intellect, and you do not "suffer fools gladly." Your very warm affections are seldom revealed, even to those who have a right to expect some of the best demonstrations. You are not in the least responsive, and seldom enter into the moods of "outsiders," nor is it easy for you to give sympathy.

If you be a man, you prefer the company of other men—women you do not understand. If you be a woman, you also prefer the friendship of the masculine sex, and have more of a man's type mind and attitude toward life.
There is very little frivolity about you. You are fitted for creative work, such as art and writing, or some department of finance. You rather scoff at love and romance, but it is not probable that you will live a solo life. You will not be especially fond of children, until you have your own.

STEEL INDUSTRY ENCOURAGED BY LATEST REPORTS

Quotations Stabilized as Price Is Advanced $1 Per Ton

By CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York (CPA)—
More encouragement for the iron and steel industry is held out today in the weekly reviews of trade journals. This was supplemented by the increase in unfilled tonnage reported at mid-day by the United States Steel Corporation.

The advance of $1 a ton, initiated a week ago by the Carnegie Steel company and adopted by practically all the large independent manufacturers, has had the effect of stabilizing quotations. It has also greatly improved the morale of the industry.
It was expected that production would show another decrease this week, which it did, with the average declining to 38 per cent of capacity though mills in Chicago were operating at 45 per cent, Cleveland at 48 per cent, in Youngstown at 43 per cent, in Pittsburgh and eastern Pennsylvania at 38 per cent, with Buffalo showing the low ratio of 24 per cent.

The "Iron Age" believes that this week's developments in the iron and steel trade have been decidedly favorable and that a marked gain in confidence has been developed. It finds that "there has been a gradual gain in demand for forward delivery, strengthening expectation of an upturn in production early next year." One important independent maker of sheets has had a better volume of orders since the middle of November than for any similar period in several months.

GOOD STEP, CLAIM
"Steel," another organ of the iron and steel trade, in discussing the price advance, says that producers and consumers are unanimous in their opinion that a constructive step has been taken. It finds "important consumers sympathetic with the move to place steel on a more remunerative basis, believing it precedent to a recovery in general business."

The fact that buyers of iron and steel products are in accord with producers on the price increase minimizes the arguments which have been made in congress against it. This trade review feels that senators have been playing politics in criticizing the iron and steel manufacturers for their action and trying to invoke the anti-Sherman trust law to prevent it.

In the last eleven months, according to "steel," heavy steel has declined to $6 a ton and even more on some light products. As there has been no reduction in wages the $1 advance does not compensate for the wage losses that have been absorbed.

MANY CUT DIVIDENDS
It might also be pointed out to members of congress who have been attacking the price advance, that in recent weeks half a dozen iron and steel companies have been compelled to reduce or pass their dividends on their stock owing to the conditions in the industry.

The railroads are expected soon to complete their contracts for rails and other materials. These orders will give considerable work for the mills after the first of the year. This buying has been postponed for more than two months and will have the effect of concentrating demands in the early part of 1931 which normally would have been spread over a longer period.
Steel consumption in December
by the automobile trade will probab-

SAYS WIFE'S BOOZE BLINDED HIM—SO HE PAYS NO ALIMONY

Chicago (P)—The question before the court was whether John Warren, 33, should pay temporary alimony pending settlement of his suit for divorce from his wife, Catherine. It was answered by Judge Trude negatively after Warren, led into the courtroom by his father and mother, said:
"My wife used to operate a beer plant. I drank some of her moonshine. It was poison and made me blind. I haven't been able to work for three years."

by not exceed the November total.
There are rumors that the Ford company will increase its line and possibly bring out a light 3 cylinder car which would expand the requirements of this concern in the steel market.

Financial And Market News

STOCK MART DRIFTS TO LOWER LEVELS; TRADE VOLUME FAIR

Liquidation is Reported Orderly and Unhastened—Shares Drop Off

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York—(P)—The stock market drifted substantially lower after holding fairly steady during the early trading today.

Selling was in fair volume, and several issues declined 2 to 6 points to new lows for the bear market. Liquidation, however, was orderly and unhastened.

Shares recording new minimum levels with losses of 2 to 4 points included New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Norfolk and Western, Paramount, American and Foreign Power, Johns Manville, Case, Columbian Carbon, American Water Works, and Worthington Pump. Atchafalaya lost 6 points. Other shares losing 2 to 3 points included U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Eastman, Byers, American Tobacco, Fox, American Can, and Loew's.

Recent heaviness in some of the commodities appeared to be a depressing factor in the stock market. Cotton futures sold at new lows for the season, which came on the heels of the sag in copper and silver. Steel prices, however, seem to be maintaining their recent improvement, and stabilization of wheat seems to progress satisfactorily.

An adverse psychological factor, naturally, was the news of the big over-all depression bank by the state banking commissioner, but Wall Street was inclined to regard this development as a bitter but tonic pill. While the institution was one of the newer ones in the city, and was without important connections, the situation surrounding it had been the basis of exaggerated rumors for some time. Wall Street feels that this decisive action will be found to have been an important step toward revival of confidence.

Chairman Legge of the farm board presented an encouraging analysis of the cotton situation, pointing out that stocks on hand throughout the world are being steadily depleted, and the reduction in the use of cotton has been much less than the reduction in spinning activity. Mr. Legge also indicated that the government would continue to hold the wheat crops over as long as for sale, and refuse to come to the level of domestic quotations.

A conspicuous item of corporate news was the declaration of the regular quarterly dividends on the $7 and $8 preferred issues of International Paper and Power, with the explanation that there had been a substantial increase in income, so that accruals were now being earned.

Credit conditions were little changed. Call money was rather firm at 2 per cent. Canadian Exchange declined sharply, resulting in a shipment of $5,000,000 in gold from Montreal to New York.

SLUMP ON BOND MART RESUMED; TRADE DULL

New York—(P)—The declining tendency of bonds which has continued throughout the week was resumed today. Some sizeable reductions developed in rails and industrials but utilities maintained their greater resistance to selling pressure and losses in the group were generally fractional. Here and there bargain hunters stepped in to acquire undervalued issues that have been sharply depressed but their bids were generally slightly below the previous day's closing figures and the volume of their purchases was not sufficiently large to counteract the heavy tone of the domestic list.

Trading in United States Government bonds was very active and most transactions were at a slight concession from yesterday's final prices. Turnover was especially large in Liberty bonds. Liberty 3 1/2, 4 1/2 and 4 3/4 were heavily traded. While Treasury issues have been the most stable type of investment in the listed market in the current decline, they have shown a tendency in recent sessions to give a little ground and prices are slightly below the peaks reached last month.

While the sharp dip in bond prices this week has reflected the liquidation from special sources, local banking circles said New York banks were not disposing of their holdings, which now are the largest since the spring of 1928. With the slack demand for funds for business and on collateral loans banks in the financial district have found bonds their chief means of profitably employing surplus funds. Thus far there have been no indication, bankers say, that would lead to a belief that the extreme ease of money rates, which make bond attractive investments, is nearing an end.

The Virginia Public Service company, a part of the Middle West Utilities system plant to offer $6,000,000 20 year 5 per cent gold bonds soon.

INCREASE FUNDS FOR WISCONSIN INDIANS IN '32

$116,150 Is Appropriated for Hayward School by Department

BY RUBY A. BLACK (Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—Increases in funds for Wisconsin Indians for the fiscal year 1932, beginning next July 1, as compared with the current fiscal year are provided in the Interior department appropriation bill now before congress.

Items appropriated especially for Wisconsin Indians are:

$116,150 for the Hayward school, distributed as follows: $58,650 for subsistence of 170 pupils; $10,000 for salaries, general repairs and improvements, including an employee, cottage; $40,000 for construction and equipment of an auditorium and gymnasium; $7,500 for a home economics building. The appropriation for this school during the present fiscal year is $60,800.

$152,500 for the Indian school at Tomah, distributed as follows: $118,- 500 for subsistence of 350 pupils, $18,000 for salaries, general repairs and improvements. $18,000 for a shop building, including equipment.
The appropriation for this school this year is $157,750, of which $35,- 000 was a special appropriation for a building. The amount for support is increased nearly $10,000 and the amount for general improvement and repairs is increased $2,000.

$30,000 for maintenance of the Hayward hospital as against $22,- 000 this year.

$25,000 for the Tomah hospital as against nothing this year, the new 47-bed hospital just being completed.
$10,000 to buy land for the St.
Croix Chippewa Indians of Wisconsin, except that cash can be given in lieu of land to those who would benefit more from cash, this being part payment of $141,000 previously found due to these Indians.

$70,800 for the Menomonees at Ke-shena, of which $5,000 is for distribution among old and indigent Menomonees who cannot be placed in the home. Most of the Menominee support comes from the tribe's funds.
This is $3,800 more than the amount appropriated this year.

$2,000 for the Lac du Flambeau reservation.

Out of the Menominee tribal funds,
the Bureau of Indian Affairs plans to spend $25,000 for health work in the fiscal year 1932, the same as this year, whereas only $14,139 was spent during the fiscal year 1930, and $8,000 for health work at the Menominee mule, the same as this year, none having been spent last year. The bureau will also spend $100 of the Lac du Flambeau tribal funds for health work.

The Menomonees on the Keshena reservation have $2,297,000 on deposit to their credit, bureau officials said, with estimated receipts of $637,- 600 this year. More money is to be spent in supporting the enlarged hospital, which now has a capacity of 60 beds. The $70,800 fund also includes maintenance of the new old folks' home.

John D. Jr., Home

"I am very hopeful." That was the comment of John D. Rockefeller Jr., on the outlook for improved business conditions when he returned from two months in Europe. Here you see the magnate as he arrived in New York, obviously in good health and expressing "a profound belief in the people of America and the people of the world." He said he had heard no war-like talk in European countries.

FRIENDLY ENEMIES
Delaware, O.— Sheriff Veley E.
Main, Democrat, and Chester Mc Kinnie, Republican, are rivals for the sheriff's office this year, but they're friendly enemies. Their birthdays fall on the same day each year and they both celebrate it together.
In their campaign speeches, neither will say anything unfriendly about his rival.

Romance Smocks of Printed Toile in Exclusive Patterns

Romance lives again in these smocks that turn back the pages of history to those days when gallantry and chivalry prevailed.

There is the "Court of Napoleon," depicting the splendors of France in that thrilling period. The "Cape Cod" smock brings back to life the scenes of early New England's rugged coast.

So, from by-gone ages comes this new idea in smock-styling; of inspiring romance that stirs the heart and creates the desire to possess and wear these alluringly different smocks.
They are made of printed toiles — fabrics suited exactly to the scenes of these romantic periods.
